Christina, 2½, being patted on the head by her mother, raised the alarm when Bradley, 3½, fell down a 40-foot well. Mrs. Moreland slid down a rope and braced herself against the sides of the well, holding the boy, until firemen arrived.

Zablocki Finds Aid to Viet Nam Was Not Fiasco

Washington —A news-paperman's charges that U. S. aid to Viet Nam is a fiasco are not borne out by the facts, a house committee chairman says.

The charges that the Viet Nam aid program has been scandalous were made in a series of articles by Scripps-Howard newspaper writer Albert M. Colegrove. "I believe what I saw and I still believe it," Colegrove told the committee.

"These accusations," said Rep. Clement J. Zablocki (D-Wis) yesterday, "as well as specific charges of wrongdoing, have not been substantiated to date. Many of these charges have been traced to sources which I, for one, must respectfully consider to be less than reliable."

Zablocki, chairman of a foreign affairs subcommittee, spoke after an intensive 2-hour quizzing of Colegrove about his articles.

No Agreement By Democrats

Los Angeles —The question of whether Los Angeles keeps the 1960 Democratic national convention is still up in the air today.

Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler and local party officials failed yesterday to iron out a squabble over distribution of convention tickets.

One of the conference participants, Los Angeles County Supv. Frank Bonelli said: "The solution won't come until Monday."

Glue for Teeth

Need for Dental Plates Could be Eliminated

BY FRANK CAREY

Washington —Development of a "tooth glue" that might eventually eliminate the need for dental plates and bridges was reported today by naval medical researchers.

Other possibilities: Take a tooth out, fill it, glue it back in. Extract teeth that need straightening, glue them back in neat order. Perhaps repair broken bones. Experiments with dogs indicated that after a tooth is pulled, the original tooth or an artificial substitute can be reinserted in the socket with the new cementing substance.

Success on Dog
Capt. Thomas J. Canty described the development. He is director of the Prosthetics Research laboratories of the Navy hospital at Oakland, Calif., where the research is underway.

Canty said a dog now sports a tooth that was glued in about a year ago. The doctor said the pooch was able to eat the day after the dental glue job.

The researcher stressed that no dental glue studies have yet been made for humans, nor is the navy making any claims that the technique will work on man. He added "the animal work looks very promising for possible human application."

Would Replace Plat
"If the technique should prove successful in humans," he said, "would could have a full set of teeth extracted and then replace them with synthetic teeth, or teeth from a tissue bank, which could be secured in the jaw without need for the usual denture plate which is uncomfortable for some people. It also should be less expensive."

"A tooth requiring a filling could be taken out, filled, and then reinserted in the socket. Or, you might need to have your teeth straightened. Such teeth could be extracted

Castro Tells Cubans Americans Aid Foes Of His Government

Premier Gives Report on Failure of Conspiracy

BY HAROLD K. MILKS

Havana —Fidel Castro today accused American officials of aiding conspirators against Cuba's revolutionary regime.

The bearded premier was in an alternating angry and laughing mood as he appeared before a nationwide television audience to tell how the counter revolutionary plot was crushed.

Castro denounced Dominican Republic strongman Generalissimo Rafael L. Trujillo as "the financial boss of all those who are plotting against us."

He also sharply criticized the United States, charging Cuban war criminals who had taken refuge there were permitted to do as they like.

He declared airplanes based in Miami have made repeated flights to Cuba dropping anti-government leaflets and picking up war criminals. Castro claimed American officials could have stopped such flights if they wanted to.

Laughs at Program
The revolutionary chieftain called the inter-American foreign ministers conference, being held in Santiago, Chile, to deal with the Caribbean crisis, a "farce."

He ridiculed a program put before the conference by Sec. of State Christian A. Herter for easing tensions.

Castro said Herter talks about "expeditions that come and go" instead of talking about Latin America's economic problems — "about the hunger of babies in our countries."

Herter had told the Santiago meeting that some of the re-

Brink's Guard Shot, Gunmen Seize $18,442

Critically Wounded In San Francisco Armored Car Holdup

San Francisco —Two gunmen critically wounded a Brink's guard Friday in San Francisco's first armored car holdup. They fled with $18,442.

The robbery, apparently carefully planned, came as the guard was picking up the day's receipts at the Stonestown Emporium, one of the city's newest department stores.

The bandits, well dressed and wearing sun glasses, escaped in a stolen auto which they quickly abandoned.

Driver Unhurt
The guard, Converse Smallwood, 43, was in grave condition at Mission Emergency hospital with four bullet wounds in his chest, abdomen and an arm.

A Brink's employe for three years, Smallwood spent 20 years in the army. He has two small children and his wife is expecting a third.

The armored car driver, Jacob Siegel, 25, was not injured.

The bandits apparently had learned that Brink's picked up the store's receipts daily at about 3:30 p.m. One emporium employe told police she saw the bandits sitting quietly in the lobby where the shooting took place, just minutes before the midafternoon robbery.

Titan Missile Blows Up On Launching Pad, Polaris In Successful Launching

By The Associated Press

The United States had its busiest day of rocketry yesterday since it began reaching for space. The main effort failed — an attempt to send a 12-foot inflatable balloon into orbit.

The Juno II rocket roared spaceward from Cape Canaveral, Fla., bearing the unusual balloon-moon. Its three stages ignited successfully, but the last one apparently went in the wrong direction and carried the satellite back into the earth's atmosphere.

Use Identical Words in Reply

Navy Ex-Secretary Explains Similarity In Answers to Quiz

Washington —Former Sec. of the Navy Dan A. Kimball, who now heads one of the nation's big rocket weapons firms, has an explanation why 26 retired officers now working for him answered a congressional questionnaire in identical words.

The questionnaire was sent to retired Pentagon officers who work for big defense contractors. A house subcommittee is trying to find out if these former Pentagon officials exert any improper influence in the awarding of defense contracts.

Asked for Advice

Kimball told the committee yesterday the 26 now working for his Aerojet General corporation answered the questions in the same words because they had sought advice about it from higher ups in the company.

The answers, couched in legalistic terms, were the same word for word and in some cases appeared to be typed into the blanks on the questionnaire by the same typewriter.

To Kimball's statement that the standard reply was suggested to those who asked advice, but that they were not required to use the same form, Chairman F. Edward Hebert (D-La.) snorted:

"You've been around the navy long enough to know what a suggestion from a superior means."

Squall Line Crashes Into Fox Cities Area

Damage Scattered From Oshkosh Through Brillion; Phone Poles Down at Sherwood

A squall line loaded with rain and wind struck the Fox Cities area about 4:30 p.m. Friday, causing damage over a scattered area reaching from north of Oshkosh through the Brillion area.

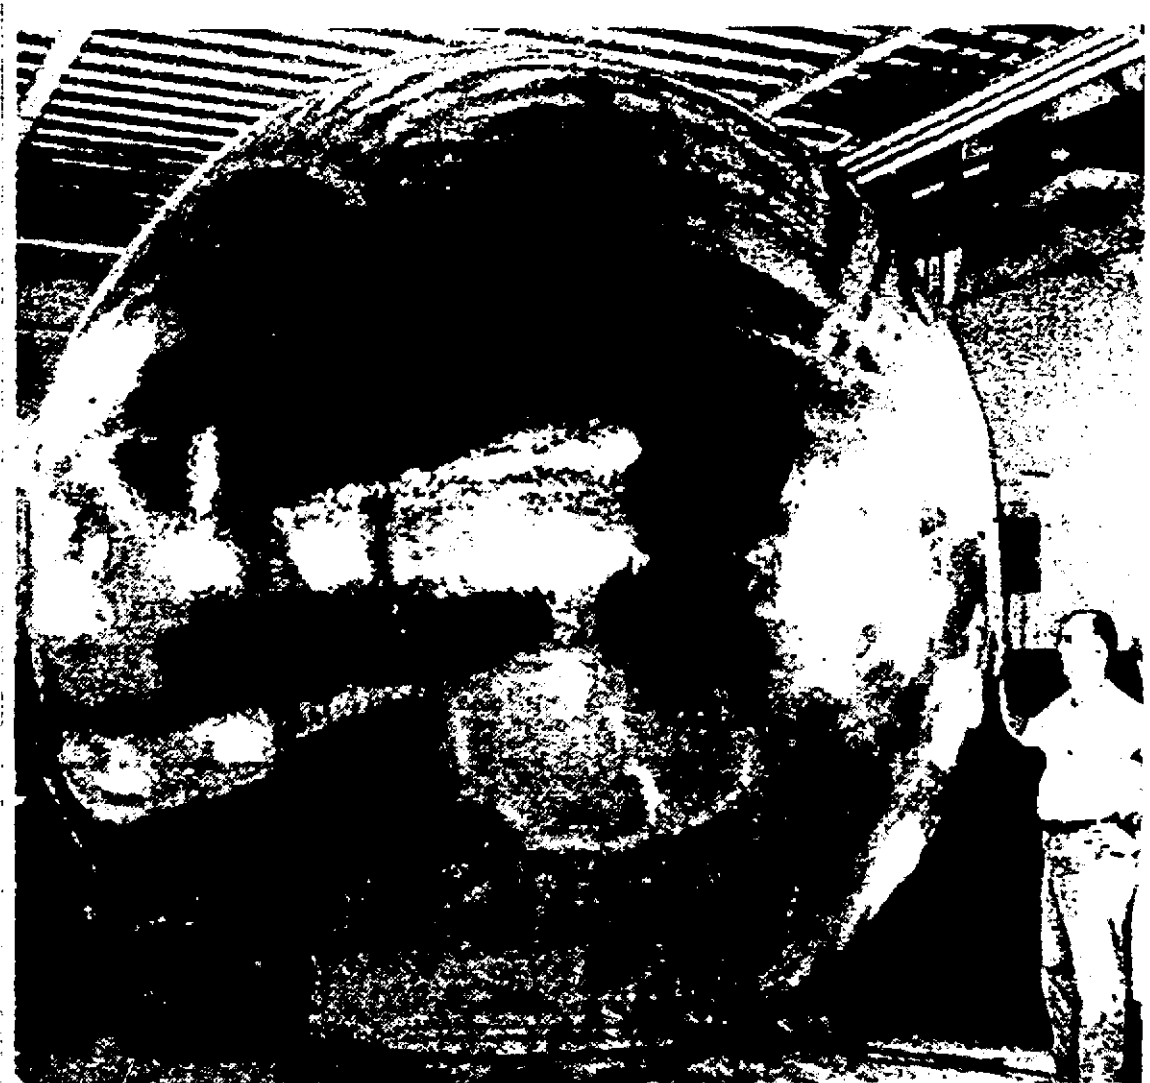

A 40 by 60-foot barn on the farm of Mrs. Freda L. Furman, north of Oshkosh, collapsed. A dozen poles of the Stockbridge - Sherwood Telephone company were blown down across Calumet County Trunk M just west of the village. Two chimneys were downed along Brillion's Main street and the roof was blown off of the Waldemar Behnke farm between Collins and Reedsville in Manitowoc county.

Power was off for about an hour for 15 to 20 customers near Rainbow beach south of Neenah when falling trees broke lines. Some 60 Oshkosh city customers were without power when a primary line was cut by a tree blown down near the Furman farm on County Trunk A. The interruption was for about six hours.

Hour Storm

The squall lasted about a hour. It hit Appleton at 4:40 p.m. and the heavy rain eased off about 5:30 p.m. The maximum wind during the period was 26 miles an hour, according to the Wisconsin Michigan Power company's weather post in Appleton.

The power company station estimated about .75 of an inch fell during the storm in Appleton. The Calumet Dutch Packing company at Brillion reported an inch of rain. At Brillion, a limb of a tree crashed into the Edwin Junc Turn to Page B7, Col. 1

This is the 12-foot balloon satellite which failed to go into orbit following a firing at Cape Canaveral, Fla. The shot, in a Juno II, was one of four missile firings at the cape Friday.

Another failure was a giant Titan missile that blew up on its launching pad at the cape earlier in the day.

On the plus side at Cape Canaveral was a successful launching of a Polaris missile from a $3 million machine that simulates the motion of a submarine at sea. The weapon is designed to be fired from a sub anywhere in the world.

Britons Launch Thor
At Vandenberg Air Force base, Calif., a British air force training crew successfully launched a 1,500-mile Thor missile, the kind being set up at bases in England.

Another Thor was launched at Cape Canaveral. It carried a movie camera to photograph the earth from an altitude of 300 miles. The capsule carrying the camera was not found.

At the country's western extreme, Hawaii, air force planes equipped with dangling trapeze devices tried to snare a capsule returning to earth from the satellite Discoverer V, which was fired into orbit Thursday from the west coast base. They failed to get any sight of the capsule.

Surface vessels also combed the sea north of the Hawaiian islands looking for the floating capsule, but the defense department said there was little hope they would find it. The device's signal equipment apparently failed to work.

Atmosphere Drag
If the Cape Canaveral balloon had gone into orbit, it would have been the third successful U.S. satellite to circle the earth in a week. Last Friday a Thor-Able rocket shoved a 142-pound "paddle-wheel" satellite into orbit which still is radioing back important space information.

The balloon-moon was designed to show just how much drag the super-thin atmosphere up to an altitude of 1,000 miles or so would have on such a large, light object. If all had gone well, the last stage of the Juno would have kicked free the aluminum-foil package, and a nitrogen bottle would have blown it up to its 12-foot inflated size. After that it would have stayed in space because of its rigid skin even if it were punctured by tiny meteors.

Visible To Eye
This moon would have been the first launched by the U.S. visible to the naked eye.

For that reason, it could have been tracked by cameras from the earth with great accuracy. A separate vehicle also in orbit would have provided, through radio information, a precise check on how much drag there was on the balloon.

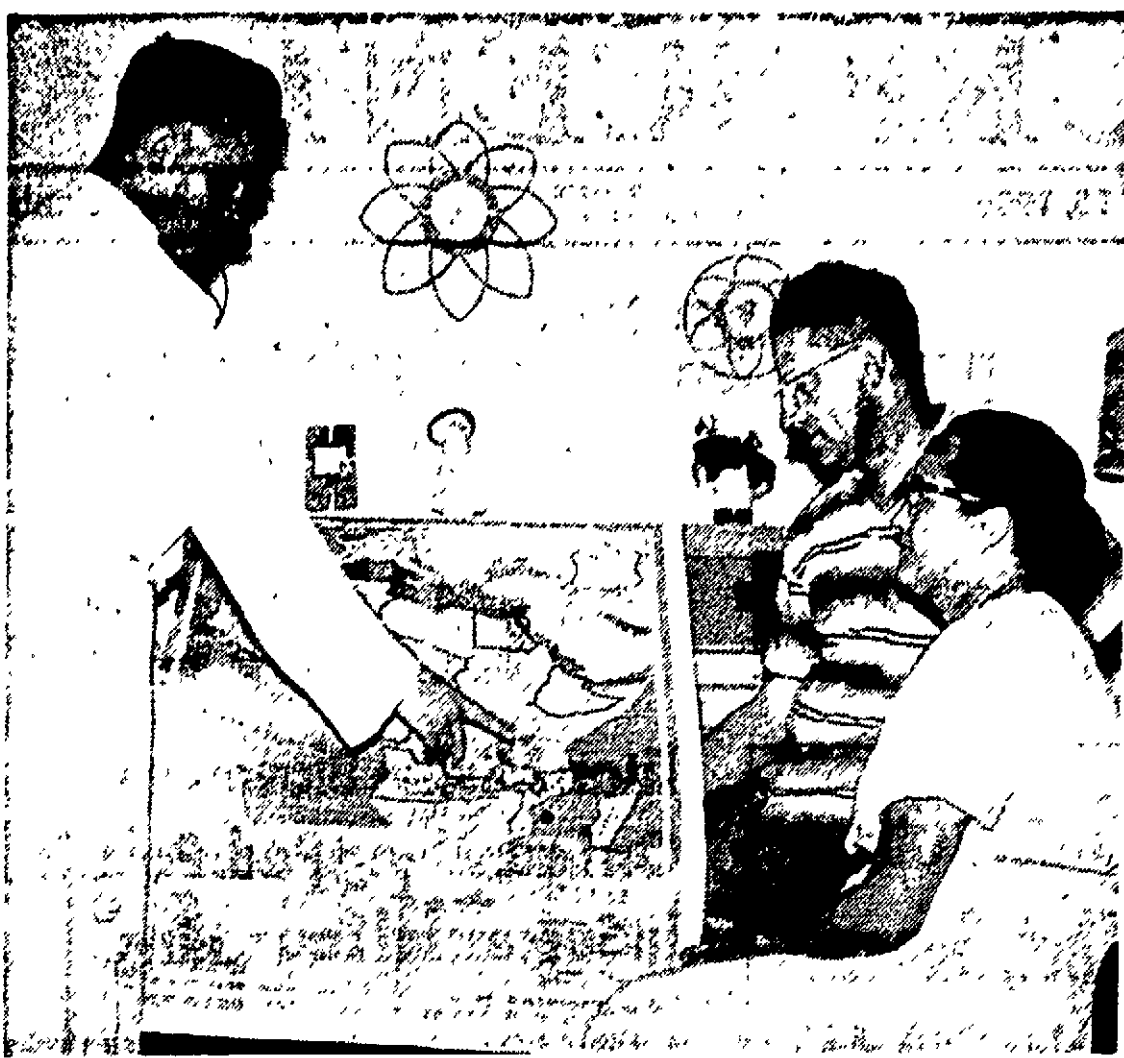

Scientists expected to learn just how much thrust they would need to get a space platform up, and just how much shielding would be needed for the passengers.

6 Priests Prepare for Mission Work in Iron Curtain Countries

BY RAY SHAW

AP Newsfeature Writer

New York—(AP)—A handful of Franciscan priests are quietly preparing for a missionary invasion of the eastern European nations living under communism.

Once a beachhead is established there, the Franciscans hope to move into Soviet Russia, spreading the gospel.

Success will depend wholly on whether the communists allow them in.

Want Freedom

"We won't be parachuted behind the Iron curtain, or anything like that," says the Rev. Paul Guthrie, who hopes to be one of the first Franciscans in communist territory. "We will not go until we are assured that we will be allowed to work freely and without interference."

When will that day come? "It will, it will," Father Guthrie answers.

Preparing Franciscans for work behind the iron curtain is a difficult task, since it represents a branching out of the monastic order from the Roman Catholic church to the Byzantine rite of eastern Catholics (not to be confused with eastern orthodox).

Same Doctrine

Both the Roman and Byzantine Catholic rites believe in the same Catholic doctrine. But there are differences. In the Byzantine rite, the pope is recognized as the supreme pontiff, but followers are subject directly to a patriarch. In the west, the faithful are subject only to the pope.

Mass is sung in the language of the land in the Byzantine rite; in the west, it is sung in Latin. The Byzantine church has no organs, uses icons and the altar is partially screened from the worshippers. Also, the Byzantine rite allows marriage of priests.

"In the Byzantine rite," ex-

California Woman Figures Fall From Bed Worth $10,000

San Francisco—(AP)—What would you consider a fair return for falling out of bed?

Nora T. Foley, 47, alleges she suffered back injuries Aug. 14, 1958 when she fell out of a full-sized bed in her apartment and is suing her former landlord for $10,000.

She charges the landlord, A. Harfourt, was negligent in putting a three-quarter mattress on the bed.

Salvatorian to Help With African Mission

Catholic Brother, Bricklayer, to Stay in Tanganyika Five Years

A Catholic brother from Appleton is swapping the serenity of the Fox River valley for the upland country of Tanganyika, a British protectorate in Africa.

Brother Aurelius, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Rieden, 713 E. Marquette street, left Thursday for a 5-year stay in Masasi, a town 75 miles from the coastal African jungles. With him goes a background in masonry and construction work, a desire to help construct a much-needed medical dispensary and an avid interest in the booming "Dark Continent."

The 1949 St. Therese Catholic grade school graduate spent three years in preparation for his "extended visit." Another Salvatorian brother from Appleton helped pave the way for him.

Hears From Africa

"Brother Benedict (son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stoebauer, 414 E. Randall street) and I were good friends at St. Nazianz seminary. He has been in Africa two years. We've been writing frequently about the country since he left," Brother Aurelius said.

A map of Africa hangs over the fireplace in the Rieden household where "James," his name before he entered the religious life, is visiting. Over 30 people, neighbors of the Riedens when they lived at 1712 N. Clark street six years ago, visited with their old friends at an open house Monday.

Mrs. Rieden seemed pleased about the impending jaunt.

"It's what he wants to do and it's all right with me. I'm glad it's for this reason, not for something like a war, that he's leaving," she said.

Language School

"When I get over there, I'll go to a mission language school to learn the Swahili tongue. When I finish that, I'll do construction work for the mission," he explained.

"The town, he said, is situated in upland plateau country. The protectorate produces sisal, from which twine and cord is made, and grows coffee beans for export."

Volunteer Work

"I volunteered for the work three years ago but my appointment wasn't confirmed until last year. I just finished a bricklaying and 1-year masonry course at the Milwaukee Vocational and Adult school. I'll take my trowels and levers with me," he said.

"My younger sisters, Ann, 14, and Judy, 8, both think about how old they'll be when I return."

His other sister, now Sister Mary Jogues, 21, is a novice in the Dominican order in Racine. There is a brother, Paul, 19.

What hardships does he expect? "Lack of running water, I guess," he said. "Also, maybe hockey, which I enjoyed in my spare moments at St. Nazianz."

Mission Reporting

Brother Aurelius said that he has become interested in photography and hopes to do some mission reporting for religious publications. He also does some oil painting, "outdoor scenes and stuff like that."

He will visit Rome with two Wisconsin priests who have been visiting here. They will return to the Tanganyika mission, taking him with them.

After that, he sets aside his black habit. A white habit and a pith helmet will replace it. Then his work starts.

$7,858,751 Dividend Paid by American Can

50 Cent Common Share Payments
Made to 83,445 Stockholders

A record number of common stockholders in the American Can company today were mailed dividend payments of 50 cents a common share.

The number of stockholders, company president William C. Stolk said, has increased more than 10 percent during the last year and now totals 83,445.

The firm operates its Marathon division in the Fox Cities and elsewhere.

The payment was $7,858,751 on 15,717,503 common shares outstanding. It represents the 159th consecutive payment made to common stockholders since declaration of the first common dividend in the last quarter of 1922.

Stolk reported on extensive expansion and modernization of manufacturing facilities of the company's Bradley-Sun division — producers of extruded plastic tubes, squeeze bottles and collapsible metal tubes.

"Re-engineering of the entire plastic operation at the Bradley-Sun, Maynard, Mass., plant and installation of new high-speed automatic equipment has resulted in greatly increased production and lower costs," Stolk wrote.

"The future of the plastic tube and bottle is most exciting. Industry is clamoring for new ideas, new designs, and new styling in packages. Research and development programs have been accelerated to meet this market demand," Stolk added.

Millions of pastel colored plastic squeeze bottles and tubes now are produced for a rapidly growing variety of products including specialty foods, such as macaroni mix, shampoos, sun tan lotions, powders, wave lotions, insect repellents, rose sprays, library paste, electric shaver lubricant and outboard motor grease.

Q. I'm a World War I veteran past 70 years old. I served overseas three years. Does this entitle me to social security benefits?

A. Yes. When any person receiving monthly benefits dies, his or her payments are ended. The last payment in such cases is for the month immediately before the month of death. You may receive a widow's benefit for the month, but not a wife's benefit for that month.

Q. My husband died on the 27th of last month. The social security office told me that he was not due a benefit for that month, and that I would not be paid a wife's benefit for that month. Is this correct?

A. Yes. When any person receiving monthly benefits dies, his or her payments are ended. The last payment in such cases is for the month immediately before the month of death. You may receive a widow's benefit for the month, but not a wife's benefit for that month.

Q. I have just learned that benefits are payable if a person is sick for a long time. I had a nervous breakdown and will be confined to my home for several more weeks. How far back can I be paid? I have never applied for any benefits since social security started so there should be a lot of credit coming to me. Can this letter be used as an application?

A. A regular application will have to be filed so that we can get complete information about your disability. Since you are unable to call at our office we will send a representative to your home. Before we do this, we will get a record of your wages from our central office. In order to get benefits you must have social security credits for at least five years of work out of the last 10 years before you became disabled. It is necessary that you establish your disability through medical statements filed by your doctor. To determine how far back payments can be made depends on the date you became disabled. Payments can go back as much as a year but you must be disabled at least six months before you are eligible for any benefits.

Seven Corps to Play In 'Fiesta Musicana'

For the first time in 12 years, Appleton will be host to a drum and bugle corps contest.

Seven units, five of them competing for the title, will participate in the Appleton Americanos' "Fiesta Musicana" at 2 p.m. Sunday at Lawrence college Whiting field. The event is being staged by the Americanos, an American Legion sponsored youth activity.

Entering groups are the Racine Kilties, the Racine Scouts, the Cedarburg Thunderbolts, the Milwaukee Militaires and the Menominee Northernaires. The Americanos and the Little Chute all-girl drum and bugle corps will not perform in competition but will stage exhibitions.

Another Contest
The Americanos are competing in another contest at Menominee, Mich., today. Members of other corps are staying at Americanos' homes tonight.

Raising of the flag and playing the call "To the Colors" will open the contest. Each corps, composed of about 45 members will present an 11 to 13 minute performance. Marching and maneuvering to folk, popular, swing and semi-classical selections will be featured.

Each unit also will present a standstill concert.

The winning corps is the unit which coordinates music and motion in the most satisfying manner and executes it with precision. Nine judges, some from as far away as Chicago, will decide the winner.

Widely Traveled
Two of the most traveled corps are from Racine. The Racine Boy Scout corps, which has traveled almost 100,000 miles in its 32-year history, has played for audiences from coast to coast. The

Sen. Proxmire Gushes

Sen. William Proxmire's gratuitous characterization of Gov. Nelson's legislative achievements as unequalled by any other governor in the country this year was unfortunate because it sounded patronizing and was atrociously inaccurate.

It is unlikely that the senator, from his distant perch in Washington, is as well acquainted with the Wisconsin legislature's performance this year as are thousands of Wisconsin citizens.

It also is improbable that he knows enough about the record of Gov. Hatfield in Oregon, or Gov. Coleman in Mississippi, or Gov. Hanley of Indiana or Gov. Loveless of Iowa to make such confident comparisons.

And as for the record to which the senator points, it is evident that he isn't closely informed on the history of some of these events. He says the governor put over the court reorganization bill. That is an absurd claim. That bill would have passed this year, according to all competent observers, if Peter Smith had been elected governor. Gov. Nelson is entitled to credit for backing it. But he had nothing to do with writing it, and nothing to do with its promotion during six previous years.

There are other examples of achievements in the legislature this year in which the governor had a part, but in which legislators and even outside interests had a more forceful part. They were bi-partisan achievements, for the most part.

This is not to disparage Gov. Nelson's actual performance. It was a good one. Probably it compares favorably with that of most first term governors of recent times.

But the careful judge will withhold a verdict for a while. The record of the year isn't concluded. The major, difficult and sensitive questions remain to be resolved. The state budget is a mess. The tax system cries out for reform, and at worst, the state is headed for higher levies to pay for appropriations already voted or reasonably sure to be voted in the fall. Several of the governor's major legislative requests, including a highly dubious proposal for governmental control of Wisconsin farm marketing, remain to be voted upon in the legislature.

The new governor has made an encouraging beginning. But the record is incomplete. His mettle remains to be thoroughly tested. It will be early enough six months from now for a lecture from Sen. Proxmire on what has been done, and we hope that he can get it off then in a fashion that doesn't picture the governor as a protegee being patled on the shoulder by a proud sponsor saying "I told you so."

A School for Diplomats

The cold war which has been raging for nearly 14 years, which is a much longer time than any hot war we ever fought, has been waged largely by diplomats. Because we have no adequate way of training such men we have been forced to supplement our diplomatic corps with men drafted from the military and civil life.

It is small wonder that Sen. Symington of Missouri is urging the establishment of a foreign service academy to supply trained personnel just as the army, the navy and the air force academies supply trained men for those branches. Sen. Symington suggests that both men and women be eligible to attend the proposed foreign service academy. He proposes the academy offer a 4-year course. The students would be selected on merit basis and required to take competitive examinations to enter. The academy would be under the direction of the secretary of state. It might also prepare students to serve in any of the governmental agencies which operate in foreign countries. The academy would offer a regular college course with emphasis on instruction in the languages, culture, history and economy of foreign countries. He says there should be no physical requirements beyond reasonably good health.

While the United States does have some institutions for training diplomats, and while some universities have graduate schools with special programs suitable for those who might enter the foreign service, the training is rather informal and casual when compared with what is offered by Russia, as an example. Sen. Symington points out that the Russians have an institute of foreign relations supervised by their ministry of foreign affairs. This institute is the principal source of their future diplomats. Enrollment is around 1,000 and it offers a 6-year course.

In the third year students specialize in the problems of the particular area of the world where they might serve. In the final years, they study intensively the country to which they have been assigned and that is where they go and serve. The result is, the senator says, the soviets have dedicated well trained representatives at work for their cause all over the world. We have not yet matched this effort either in size or in degree of training.

There are unquestionably many young people in America who could be interested in preparing for foreign service. For them, it is pointed out, there are over 8,000 jobs. The starting pay is $5,225 a year, the top pay $27,500. The prospects financially, therefore, are interesting in themselves but we have a notion that most of the people who would undertake this form of life would do so more with the thought of serving their country in a way interesting in itself and agreeable to them without giving too much thought to the salaries involved.

'Look on My Works, Ye Mighty—'

Excavators and archeologists have been digging around the rumored site of a long-gone palace in England. They have announced that their baskets of pottery, bottles, goblets, dice and exquisitely-carved tiles support all that was said about the once magnificent castle which shone in the sun.

According to the stories, Henry VIII was annoyed at the splendor of Fontainebleau in France and resolved to do better. He leveled a village to provide a site and building materials for Nonsuch, so-called because there was "nonsuch like it." He imported architects, wood-carvers, masons and fresco painters from France and Italy and paid them the inflationary sum of four pence a day. A priory also was probably pulled down to provide some of the stones and in accordance with Henry's penchant for reducing church properties,

But Henry never was able to present Nonsuch to one of his wives. He died before its completion and his immediate successors spent little time there. His daughter, Elizabeth, was reportedly alarmed and raced in from her hunting one day when she thought that Nonsuch was on fire. But it was only the spires and turrets flashing in the setting sun, and today's excavators have confirmed that gold leaf speckled the tiles which once made up the south walls. Since Henry adulterated the coinage at about that time, it isn't difficult to know where the metal came from.

Nonsuch had a fate even more bitter than the relic in the desert left as a desolate monument to Ozymandias. Charles II gave it to one of his mistresses and she tore everything down to pay her immense debts incurred in trying to live up to the splendor of her royal liaison.

Our Official Culture

Those who must from time to time handle that formidable volume of printed pages known as the Wisconsin Statutes may have some reservations about the value of the act, but we feel impelled to record the fact that among its other achievements this year the state legislature has certified "On, Wisconsin" as the "official" Wisconsin state song.

The football fans, the barber shop quartets and the assorted merry-makers within the jurisdiction of Wisconsin statute law, we hope, will put more vigor and melody into their renditions in the future as a consequence.

There are those, of course, who will be inclined to regard these actions as frivolous. Much time, paper, ink, and clerk hire went into this act of the people of Wisconsin.

Budget Makers Must be Cut To Real Size

From The Indianapolis News

Budget makers at all levels of government customarily are confronted with spending requests for the coming year that are higher than they need be.

This is often done deliberately in anticipation of final budget reductions.

A typical situation faces President Eisenhower as he begins a review of next year's tentative spending program. He is reported to be startled at the size of the requests by federal department heads. These could increase the federal budget to as much as $62 billion.

Apparently the growing public demand for reduced spending, brought on by the fear of inflation, is being ignored by many spenders in Washington.

The President has indicated he intends to trim down the requests at least to a point where income will match spending. The welfare of the nation requires that he follow no other course.

He can be assured of widespread public support in his effort.

Catholics in Pilgrimage to Robinsonville Today

Centennial of Apparition Is Being Noted

BY JACK RUDOLPH

Press-Gazette Staff Writer

Today is a great religious feast day in the calendar of the Roman Catholic Church — the Feast of the Assumption in honor of Mary, mother of Jesus. A few miles north of Green Bay, at Robinsonville in Kewaunee county, it is the greatest day of the year, a festival that annually draws thousands of the devout and the curious to the pilgrimage at the shrine of Our Lady of Good Help.

This year's observance is of special significance to the Sisters of St. Francis, who maintain the chapel. Today marks the centennial of its existence and of the incident that created it, the alleged apparition of the Virgin Mary to Adele Brice in 1859.

Not Recognized

The Catholic church has never recognized the apparition. Indeed, for years the church was on the verge of repudiating Adele and her work. But time has stilled the controversy surrounding her, the pilgrimage has become an accepted institution, and the good work she began has endured long after the story of this humble Belgian pioneer woman has been forgotten.

Adele Brice (or Brise) was born in the Belgian farm village of Dion-le-Val in Brabant, Jan. 30, 1831, the daughter of Lambert and Marie Brice. Her family was among the early Belgian immigrants to the Door peninsula, where they settled near Robinsonville in 1855.

Little is known of her childhood except that she had little education and had lost an eye in an accident. She was a homely child and an even homelier woman but was deeply religious, with a kindly, warm personality. She hadn't wanted to come to America, preferring to join a religious order.

The Experience

Adele was 28 and had been in America four years when she had the experience in whose actuality she always sincerely believed, even if others didn't. It happened early in October, 1859, and launched her on a career of mixed success and failure, respect and ridicule from which she never deviated.

According to her own story she was carrying a sack of grain through the woods to the grist mill at Robinsonville when she saw a beautiful lady with long blonde hair, dressed in dazzling white and crowned with a ring of stars, standing between two trees beside the path. Adele was too frightened to speak or go on, and after watching her in silence for a few moments, the lady vanished.

The following Sunday, en route to mass with her sister and another woman, Adele saw the lady again, in the same place. After church she told the priest, who advised her that if the mysterious figure was a heavenly visitor it wouldn't hurt her and if she saw it again to ask the lady what she wanted.

Lady Replies

On the way home she did see it again. Adele followed the priest's advice and the lady replied she was the Queen of Heaven, charging her to instruct the pioneer children, who were growing up in backwoods ignorance, in their religious duties. Then the apparition disappeared and Adele never saw her again.

Her companions didn't see the apparition but they witnessed Adele's agitation and heard her story, which they promptly spread all over the settlement. It created a sensation and a storm of controversy, some believing and others deriding the woman. Among those who apparently believed was her father, who built a small log chapel for her near the meeting place.

Whether others believed her story or not, Adele did. For the rest of her life she devoted herself to the work she was convinced she had been commissioned to do. She spent the next seven years ranging over the peninsula, working as a hired girl on wilderness farms, her only pay being permission to instruct the children in their catechism.

Gained Respect

Neither physical hardships nor ridicule stopped her and she endured a lot of both. She also gained much sincere respect and achieved considerable success with her teaching.

As her fame — some called it notoriety — spread, people came from all over the area to see the place where she said the Virgin had appeared to her. Soon the little shrine became inadequate and her father replaced it with a larger chapel in 1861.

One can't help but admire

Lambert Brice. A hard-headed, simple man, he left no record of what he thought of the whole thing. He couldn't have enjoyed the notoriety and certainly not the abuse Adele took, but she was his daughter and he stood by her.

By 1865 Adele had attracted a few other women to help her and began begging funds to establish a permanent school. Between 1867 and 1868 the school, called St. Mary's Academy, was operating.

Adele was no business woman, however, and if it hadn't been for one of her earliest recruits, "Sister Maggie" Allard, the school would probably have collapsed. Often there wasn't enough to eat, but some kindhearted neighbor usually came through with much needed help.

Spared by Fire

After the fire of 1871, in which the school was unscathed amid general destruction, Adele's fame spread, and the annual Feast of the Assumption pilgrimage, which began in 1861, became an impressive affair. It also developed a carnival atmosphere that put Adele's activities in low repute with church authorities.

Both Bishop Melcher and Bishop Krautbauer threatened to close the school but changed their minds. The latter, while never accepting Adele's story, gave informal approval to her work by personally contributing toward the erection of a larger chapel in 1880. Under his watchful eye things began to improve.

Shortly thereafter Sister Maggie died, and without her administrative ability the school began to slip. When Adele, worn out and discouraged but unshaken in her belief, died on July 5, 1896, the situation was deteriorating rapidly.

Begins to Flourish

In 1902 Bishop Messmer turned the school over to the Sisters of St. Francis at Bay Settlement and Sister Pauline was sent to take charge. She found two discouraged lay sisters, 20 hungry children and 22 cents in the treasury. Sister Pauline stayed for 24 years and when she died in 1926 at the age of 80 had rebuilt it into a flourishing and respected institution.

There is some uncertainty as to the official status of Sister Adele and her group. Although they were sometimes called "Sisters of St. Francis" or "Franciscan Tertiaries" and wore religious garb they took no vows and never, so far as records show, affiliated with any order.

Two years after the death of Sister Pauline the school was discontinued and converted into a home for crippled children. In 1953 it became a preparatory school for Franciscan novitiates.

Modern Chapel

Meanwhile the annual Feast of the Assumption pilgrimages continued to grow. As early as 1878 attendance numbered in the thousands and by 1954 the procession and masses were attracting up to 15,000. The large, modern chapel now in use was built to handle the expanding crowds in 1941.

The pilgrimages also had unprepossessing commercial aspects that neither Sister Adele nor her successors could control. The carnival atmosphere, which included gambling, drinking and the hawking of unauthorized souvenirs, became so flagrant that in 1926 Bishop Rhode, a sincere friend of the institution, put his foot down.

The pilgrimages were prohibited until the church had acquired enough of the surrounding land to drive out the exploiters. It cost the diocese $1,000 an acre to get it, but when conditions were under control the festival was resumed in 1928.

Suggested Use of Beer, Wine In Food Recipes Is Criticized

Editor, Post-Crescent:

We have enjoyed reading your newspaper since we moved here a little over two years ago, and believe that in many ways you are doing a fine job of reporting the news. However, we have been disappointed that you carry beer and liquor advertisements. Somehow we have learned to overlook that to some extent although we think it a blight on your paper. Lately, however, the beer and liquor companies have been receiving some extra, and I assume free, boosts from your articles and recipes on foods. It may surprise you to know that there are still many people who do not drink the stuff and are repulsed by its proposed use by everyone.

I am the mother of six children and frankly I hate to think of raising them in this state where there is so much drinking. We have lived in several states but have never seen so much emphasis on beer and liquor as here. We want our children to read the newspapers but how can a person teach them to abstain when it is not only advertised therein but also glamorized in the articles? I am enclosing one article

Editor, Post-Crescent:

The newspapers haven't conditioned me to accept the fact that a meeting or visit from Mr. Khrushchev is necessary to avoid a nuclear

PHARMACY

This Month Before School Begins is the ideal time for all students to get a check up at the doctor's, according to Martin Knauer of Belling Pharmacy, 204 E. College avenue. Phone number at Belling's is RE 3-5551.

Belling's say that there have been too many children sent to school whose eyes were far from meeting the adequate standards for good sight and children who could not hear all the explanations intended for them. Neither the child himself or the mother is able to judge these senses accurately. This is the time to determine by proper examination whether or not these important tools of learning are in top condition, Bellings warns. It is an injustice to the child to wait until he is failing in his reading or being given low marks for inattention, both of which may well be indicative of his sight and hearing deficiencies. Also, if the child is markedly overweight or thin as a string bean, it is time to take steps to bring his nutrition more in line with his needs, Knauer said.

New Fall Merchandise is coming in every day at Harry Ressman Clothing, so an August clearance with special prices on summer items is necessary to make way for the new stock. The firm urges readers to stop in and see the merchandise at drastically cut prices. This is also a good time to do shopping for the fall and winter, and take advantage of the convenient lay-away plan. Harry Ressman's Clothing Store is located at 310 N. Appleton street, where he has been in business for over 50 years. Men who have found it hard to be fit anywhere else, have found at Ressman's they can be fitted properly in any size and style they desire. Ressman's carry suits from 34 to 52 and readers will recognize brand names throughout-out the store, including King Brook suits, Jayson shirts, Regal ties, Esquire sox and Stephen L. Stetson hats. Come into Ressman's during his golden anniversary year at 310 N. Appleton street. Phone number at Ressman's is RE 3-6545.

Youngsters Are Enrolling Now for the fall term at Concerto Music, 1105 E. Wisconsin avenue. The band shown above is one of many, specializing in any type of music from rock and roll to symphonies. Phone number at Concerto Music is RE 9-1171.

The staff at Concerto Music advises parents to enroll youngsters now before the school rush. They say that in their band program children have a chance to perform for the public, giving them self-confidence. An 8-week trial course is available and anyone who is interested is invited to attend rehearsals of the various groups to see and hear the youngsters working together. The Accordian Symphony is only part of Concerto's band training program. Several bands have been organized to suit every stage of the student's training. Band training, the firm feels, is an important factor in developing students. Music students participated in summer activities sponsored by the recreation department.

Concerto Music is looking for a drummer in the age group of 8 to 14 years. They said they are starting another rock and roll band and need a drummer. Any accordionist of intermediate or advanced grade is invited to audition for the All-Star band, which will be playing in the Chicago and Music Festival, America's largest single music festival. The festival includes approximately 8,000 musicians from the Midwestern states. The Appleton band and one of the soloists won superior ratings in the Northeastern Wisconsin Music Festival this year, making them eligible for the Chicago Festival.

Austria and India Hold Memories for Traveling Scholars

Campus Life Different For Teacher

BY SUSAN NOYES
Post-Crescent Society Editor

An energetic teacher of psychology stopped off in Appleton this week to renew acquaintance with her hometown relatives and to recount experiences of a 5-year teaching stint in India.

Dr. Marie Finger Bale, who holds her doctorate in psychology and teacher education, found campus life at Isabella Thoburn college, Lucknow, India, strikingly different.

The vivacious widow, the only westerner in her graduate department, was on the University of Wisconsin staff prior to being sent to India by the Methodist Missions board.

Teaching Hot Job
Accustomed to the wintry climes of the Madison campus, Dr. Bale soon learned that teaching school in the Uttar Pradesh province of north India was a hot job.

"To avoid the afternoon heat," Dr. Bale related, "We had breakfast at 5:45 a.m., and class started at 6:50 a.m. After classes were over for the day at 1:30 p.m., the long afternoon was broken by 'lifin' or teatime at 3:30 p.m. Dinner was served at 7:30 p.m."

Dr. Bale's "western efficiency" was marveled at by her sari-clad colleagues. She was the only member of the 42-member staff who typed. On the other hand, she was amazed at the college's communication operation. There was only one telephone on the campus, it being cheaper to use a servant or "chaprasi" to carry inter-office messages.

'Movie' View
Dr. Bale's activities were not only concerned with teaching—she served as dean of women during her last year and was called upon often to give talks.

"Many have 'movie' impressions of America," she recalled. "They are impressed with our material standards... they think all drive big cars and live in big houses."

A truer picture of her home-land was imparted while working with the Lucknow

India's Independence in 1947 has taken women out of the home. The joint family system traditionally practiced throughout India has been assaulted—now it is possible, said Dr. Bale, although frowned upon, for a young couple to set up their own home after marriage. The idea of women working is approved except for mothers.

Prior to her departure from India in May, Dr. Bale was joined by her perky sister, Mrs. Florence Reis, who made the occasion stretch into a trip around the world.

Sister's Memories
Mrs. Reis, also a widow, and Dr. Bale make their home in Wausau, where Dr. Reis is employed as a Marathon county nurse. They are sisters of the late Harold Finger of Appleton, secretary of the Weber Knitting Mills.

Highpoints of her India sojourn, as remembered by Mrs. Reis, included a week's stay on a houseboat in the Himalayas, a tour of the Taj Mahal and having tea with the governor of the province. She also delved into her nursing field while there and took trips out to native villages.

Dr. Bale, who is home for a year of talks to various Methodist groups, has made no definite plans. Gradual acceptance of Hindi, the national tongue, as a teaching language, blocks her return to India unless she studies the language necessary for her technical fields.

Though Dr. Bale will not return to school in fall, her calendar is full. Beckoning the end of this month is a national conference of 6,000 Methodist youth. She will encourage the young people in life vocations as well as share her memories of far-off India.

Coed Visits 10 Months In Europe

BY CAROL RICHARDSON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A year rich with memories of music and the discoveries of a foreign country was spent in Salzburg, Austria, by Miss Joan Gilbert, who will soon return to Oberlin college, Oberlin, Ohio, for her senior year.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Gilbert, 1038 E. Eldorado street, was among the 87 students at Oberlin conservatory, who made up the first junior class required to spend a year studying music abroad.

"During our freshman year the required time in Europe was discussed, Joan explained, "and the faculty voted for it when we were sophomores." The famed century-old Mozartium, which is supported by an international group of Mozart patrons and endowed by the Austrian government, was chosen for the experiment and a curriculum was planned especially for the Oberlin students.

The group lived in two dormitories, a city hotel and an old castle outside the city which was formerly the home of the ruling archbishop of Salzburg. Musical classes were held at the Mozartium and academic subjects were taught at the Frohnberg castle.

Since the year in Austria was a requirement for a degree from Oberlin, the program was set up so that basic costs of travel, tuition, room and board were the same as a year at the Ohio college. "Of course everybody spent quite a bit more money traveling and shopping," Joan added. "But it was worth it."

Teaching Ambitions
Joan, who is majoring in music history and cello, would like to study in graduate school, teach music and eventually return to Europe. "There were two orchestras at the Mozartium," the attractive coed explained. "One was an international group and the other was all strings, organized by the Oberlin students. It was conducted by our own class members and we gave free concerts for the Austrians."

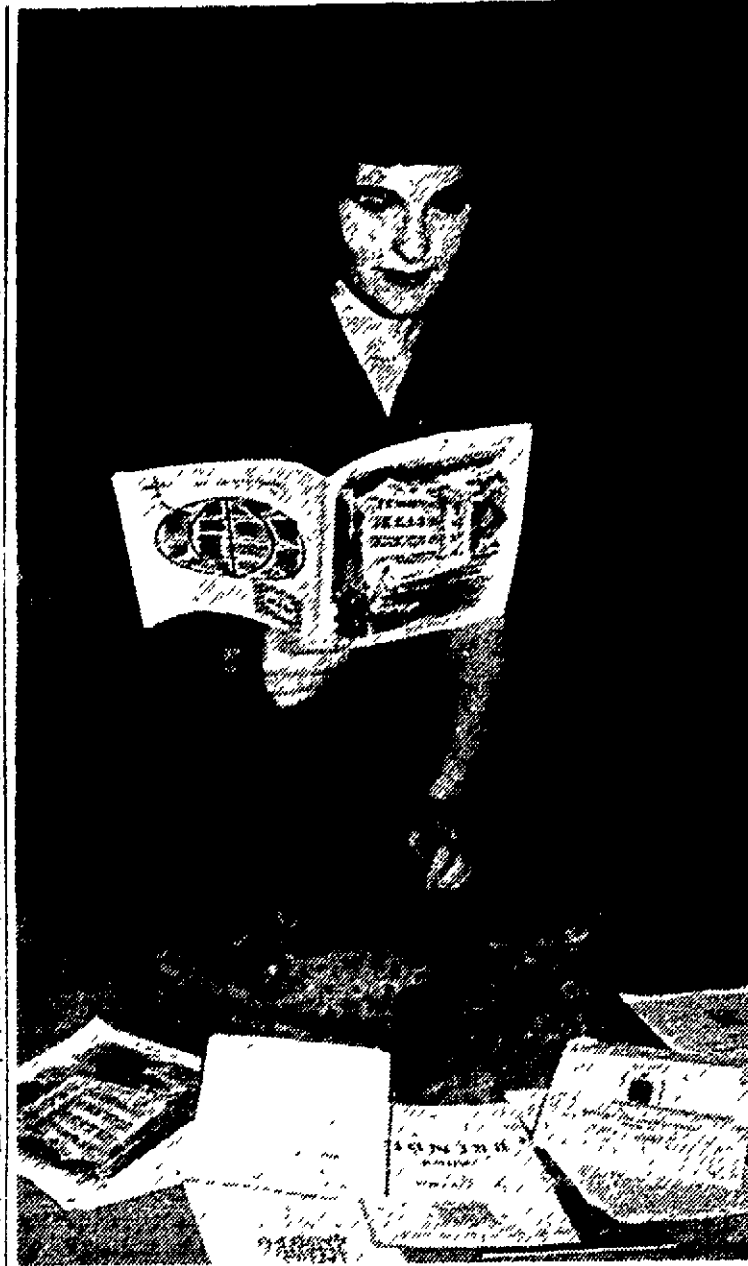

Nearly 2,000 people were present at a concert the string orchestra presented at Friedrichshafen on Lake Constance and shortly before the group completed the year at Salzburg the orchestra presented Haydn's Farewell symphony at a final concert. "During Mozart week, which is always held in January, both orchestras played several concerts," Joan pointed out. "One of the European students conducted the large orchestra and we never rehearsed until a week before the program."

Classes for the group of Americans were conducted mostly in English, although a Viennese professor at Oberlin held special German classes when the students were sophomores. "In a month or so, we began to pick up the language," Joan smiled.

Studying and classroom activities were only a part of the year abroad, however. Joan, as did most of the other Oberlin students, spent vacations attending music programs, festivals and concerts in France, Germany and Italy, and visiting points of interest on the continent.

Roman Adventure
"On Christmas day we attended a long, but beautiful high mass in Florence, Italy," she said. "and our Christmas dinner was fish." New Year's eve was spent in Rome where several of the young musicians mischievously set off sparklers in the dark, deserted coliseum.

"We got lost that night too," she laughed. "We walked to the Trevi fountain and threw Austrian groschen, so we would return to Rome some day. Then we walked and walked and we were almost at our hotel just before midnight and the streets were deserted. We were warned to stay off the streets—all of a sudden people started to throw bottles, firecrackers and all kinds of things." After dashing to the com-

A Concert Program From the La Scala Opera house at Milan brings back happy memories for Miss Joan Gilbert, who recently returned from a year of study at the Mozartium at Salzburg, Austria. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Gilbert, 1038 E. Eldorado street, was among 87 students at Oberlin college Conservatory of Music, Oberlin, Ohio, who took music courses in the foreign city.

parative safety of the hotel, "I love the cathedral and there are so many things to see!" Amsterdam, Bruges, Belgium; Paris, Rheims, Cologne and Chartre were other places visited on the group's itinerary during spring vacation. "We all liked Amsterdam," Joan said. "It's a lovely, modern city and has wonderful food—no continental breakfasts either!"

On the same trip the group visited Munich, the center of modern European music. "We heard two modern operas in a wonderful theater—the Prince Regent," the youthful musician explained. "They were Alban Berg's 'Wozzeck' and 'Harmony of the World' by Paul Hindemith." She described the magnificent sets as resembling a Cecil B. De Mille production and added that the latter opera had the best lighting she had ever seen.

"We had very good seats there for about $1.40, also student prices," she pointed out. The group also had student admission permits for art galleries and most musical productions.

Music Tradition
"I think that Europeans have a greater love and understanding of music than most Americans," Joan summarized. "It's probably because of their musical tradition." She also described the Landes theaters found in every small Austrian community which offer orchestral and light opera performances ten months of the year.

"These little theaters are partially state supported," she explained. "Sometimes the orchestras and performances are bad, but almost everybody can go, as the admission is only eight shillings—about 35 cents." The young miss also added that if Appleton were an Austrian city it would be supporting a symphony orchestra.

"Europeans like American popular music, but they don't like our performances of their classics," Joan mentioned. "Everybody in our class profited from the year in Europe," Joan said "and I just loved it and was glad for the opportunity."

Mr. and Mrs. Emory Dominowski, 1320 W. Winnebago street, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Sandy, to Cpl. Donald Dexter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dexter, Sr., 817 W. Spencer street.

Both young people are graduates of Appleton High school and the future bride attends Mercy hospital School of Nursing, Oshkosh, while her fiancé is stationed with the marine corps at Twenty Nine Palms, Calif.

Girl Should Meet Man Before Date

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I would very much like your opinion on the propriety of a young girl accepting a "blind date." A friend of my daughter's called and asked her if she would like to go out with a certain young man. Outside of seeing him in the neighborhood occasionally, he is a total stranger to my daughter; although the other girl knows him quite well. This friend of my daughter's has date with a young man for Saturday night and she is going to ask this other young man for my daughter—making it a foursome. I think accepting an invitation of this kind places a girl in a very bad light and I do not think she should go. What do you think?

Answer: Even if your daughter has confidence in the judgment of her friend, she should meet the young man before accepting to go out on a foursome with him and risking a very unhappy evening.

Bereaved Watch TV

Dear Mrs. Post: I would like to know if it is improper for a family in mourning to look at television? My mother died two weeks ago, and when a relative of ours came in to see us the other evening, she was shocked to find us watching television. In her opinion, his was the same as going to a movie. We felt terrible about this and never dreamed we were showing lack of respect.

Answer: By looking at television in the privacy of your own home you were showing no lack of respect to the memory of your mother.

Second Helping

Dear Mrs. Post: When passing a plate at the table for a second helping, shouldn't the knife and fork be removed and held in the hand? A friend of mine tells me that both implements should be left on the plate. Which one is right?

Answer: Your friend is right, but a note should be made that the implements should be placed well in toward the center of the plate close together to prevent their toppling off.

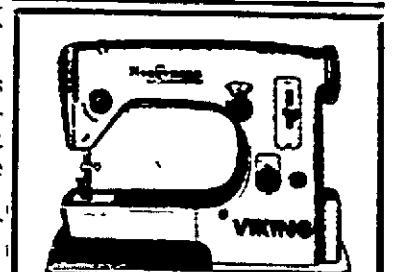

Betty Hendricks

Tell Troth of Betty Hendricks, Floyd Heider

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hendricks, route 1, Kaukauna, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Betty, to Floyd Heider, son of Martin Heider, route 2, Neenah.

The future bride is a graduate of Freedom High school and is an employee of the Zwicker Knitting mills. Her fiancé was graduated from Neenah High school and works for Tews Decorators in Neenah.

Every time that I look at the bidding, I get a pain down deep in my stomach. This is truly bidding at its worst. The first thing that must be ap-parent is that a grand slam in hearts is as cold as last Thanksgiving's turkey. Yes, seven hearts would be the nor-mal final contract if North and South had decided to bid as bridge players.

North's bid of six hearts over South's jump shift is nonsense. He might have been off the first two diamonds but, in that case, there would be no story.

When Bruce proudly an-nounced that he had a job at the iron works for the entire summer vacation I had two swift reactions. One was re-lief, since Bruce has assumed the support of a borrowed hot rod, and the other was a poi-gnant regret. This would be the first summer that all the chil-dren and I would not be togeth-er sharing picnics, sight-see-ing expeditions and the like.

Bruce's satisfaction, however, was complete and unalloyed.

We made the mistake on the first morning of having him go off to work wearing his second best wash trousers and a fair-ly decent sport shirt. When he came home; Bruce, the tan pants and the green shirt were, all the same shade—a greasy, grimy gray. He delivered the appalling garments to me in the laundry room and I went to work with bleach, soap, deter-gents and everything else that showed promise of being ef-fective. Nothing was.

When I gave up and went back to the kitchen where my beef stew was gently simmer-ing over onto the stove, Bruce was just finishing half of the pie I had planned for dessert. He had changed into clean cloth es but his skin was the original grimy gray. Over his bitter complaints that he al-ways took his showers at night, I forced him into the bath-room. Once under the spray he kept it pouring until I shouted for him to stop. Even so there was no more than a tencup of hot water left for John when he

Indoor Gardening Normal Soil, Lighting Make Chlorophytum Easy to Grow

By Katherine B. Walker

The Spider Plant (Chloro-phytum elatum) has always been one of my favorite foli-ferous plants, primarily be-cause of the way it reproduces. Aris-ands and thousands that are ing from the rosettes of very not named, and to positively long narrow leaves, flower stalks shoot out to great lengths. Then, when the little African violets, which I am clusters of white flowers have not. Perhaps the African Vio-faded, new plantlets develop in their place.

Although I would class this as a foliage plant, it actually is quite free-flowering, but the flowers are small and inclined to be fleeting; its primary in-terest and beauty is in the arching leaves and the small plants dangling from the long flower-stalks.

Not too long ago, this and similar plants were classed as Anthericums; now with the updating of plant nomen-clature that has been going on, they have turned up as Chlorophytum. (Some cat-a-logs still use the old name, so look for it under both.) Some-where in the translation they lost my pet, an all-green vari-ety, and now only variegated ones are listed in current cat-a-logs. So, here we go again!

If you sleuths will come up with the name and address of a reliable mail-order source for the all-green, whether it is anthericum or chlorophytum, the first six to send me the information will get a free packet of house plant seed.

Spider Plant is of the eas-iest culture. Just give it reg-ular potting soil, a moderate amount of light, and normal watering. It has very thick, fleshy roots which may drown if allowed to become water-logged, so err on the side of too little, rather than too much, water. Actually, this plant is a very rugged one!

For all its delicate appear-ance, and will live under con-stant light, and even pots on the floor would not look good, be-fleshy roots which may drown if allowed to become water-logged, so err on the side of too little, rather than too much, water. Actually, this plant is a very rugged one!

Indoor Gardening doesn't have any trade secrets, and our Source Sheet has been mailed to you. On this you will find listed all the sources from whom I obtain plants, seeds, books and pots. We are sincerely pleased at your in-terest, and delighted to help you any way we can.

Can you suggest some way I might use plants to dress up a plain hall wall? It is too narrow to have a table for them, and even pots on the floor would not look good, be-fleshy roots which may drown if allowed to become water-logged, so err on the side of too little, rather than too much, water. Actually, this plant is a very rugged one!

I suggest you use wrought-iron brackets, placed above average shoulder-level. Plas-tic pots with clip-on saucers to hold them, and even pots on the floor would not look good, be-fleshy roots which may drown if allowed to become water-logged, so err on the side of too little, rather than too much, water. Actually, this plant is a very rugged one!

Plant the pot in the ar-rangement secure against ac-cidental bumping. Plant the Violet leaf and flower. What pots with vines, or a com-bination of vining and erect plants; add a few African vio-specimens are usually nothing let's or wax begonias for col-but must by the time they or, if you wish.

Fast Engraving Process Patented By Appleton Man

An engraving process that is nearly 10 times as fast as conventional methods has been patented by Lester H. Doro, 1108 N. Division street.

The patent is for a special chemical bath and a new technique of revolving the printing plate during the etching operation.

An unskilled operator using the method can produce 30 halftone magnesium engravings in an hour, compared to three or four an hour made by a skilled engraver using the traditional process.

The plates are engraved from a lightweight magnesi-um alloy extracted from sea water.

The machine in which the plates are made was designed by Bernard Smith, 280 Riv-er drive. The machine em-ploys a tiny metallic strip that serves as a chemical brain. The strip stops the etching cycle when the proper tone values are engraved.

Officers of the corporation making the engraving ma-chines are Bernard Smith, president; Lester Doro, sec-retary - treasurer; Howard Mayshaw, vice president, and Milton Schmidt, director. Manufacturing is done in Mil-waukee.

Baltimore Thumps All-Stars, 29 to 0

Unitas Fires 3 TD Passes In Romp

BY ART DALEY

Post-Crescent News Service

Chicago — The Colts were kinder to the college All-Stars Friday night than they were to the Packers last fall.

The world champions from Baltimore drilled the Stars, 29 to 0—a far cry from the 56-0 lacing they handed the Bays. But the Colts could have beaten the 1959 stars much worse before 70,000 people, including Vice President Nixon, in Soldier's field.

Baltimore scored 29 points in the first half and then coasted, playing defensive players in offensive positions as they did in that infamous game last November. Art Decarlo and Bert Rechichar wound up as offensive ends.

Haven't Changed

The Colts haven't changed much. If they lacked anything, it was precision on rushing plays. But that will be razor slick come the league opener. Johnny Unitas was sharp with his pitching, getting touchdown strikes of 3, 29 and 13 yards. The fourth touchdown came on a 36-yard runback of an interception by Art Davis.

The other points (the Colts missed an extra point) came on a safety when center Dan James passed the ball high over punter Dave Sherer's head, the pigskin winding up in the end zone. James could be excused; only a few minutes earlier he had been kissed by the game's two queens during pre-game introductions—on the 50-yard line.

Actually, this was a dull game because the All-Stars couldn't move—much less score. The Colts ran it up with ease and then graciously relaxed enough to keep it from getting out of hand.

Boyd Dowler, a Packer draft choice, figured in the Stars' deepest penetration. Midway in the third period the Stars' Bob Coronado recovered a fumble of a punt by Jackie Simpson when he was bumped by DeCarlo. The Stars took over on the Colts' 16. With a first down on the eight, Dowler made a good

Vern Law Checks Braves on 5 Hits

2-1 Loss Again Costs Milwaukee Chance to Gain on Giants

Pittsburgh — Vern Law never got more than one man handcuffed Milwaukee with five hits Friday night and pitched the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 2-1 victory over the Braves.

The Braves again lost a chance to gain on the National league leading San Francisco Giants and the second-place Los Angeles Dodgers, who also were beaten. As a result Milwaukee remains in third place, three games behind the Giants and a half game in back of the Dodgers.

Law, in scoring his third victory this year over the Braves, struck out five men and walked only one. He was in trouble in only one inning, the fourth, when the Braves got their one run. Milwaukee never got more than one man on in any other inning. Law now is 13-7 for the season. Joey Jay, who started for the Braves, gave up six hits in the seven innings he worked. He turned in a creditable performance after the first inning when the Pirates got both their runs. Four of the six hits made against him came in the first inning. Jay was charged with the defeat and now has a 4-10 record.

Crandall Doubles

The Pirates scored in the first on singles by Bob Skinner, Roberto Clemente and Smokey Burgess. A stolen base by Clemente and a bobbled ball by left fielder Lee May contributed to the Pirate scoring. Don Hoak also singled off Jay in the first but died on base.

The Braves only run came in the fourth when Hank Aaron singled, advanced to second on a single by Maye. Eddie Mathews got a single in the first but died on base.

Crandall doubled in the fifth and Maye got another hit in the seventh but all were left stranded. The only other man to get on base was Mathews who walked in the ninth.

Jay set the Pirates down in order in the second, third and fourth innings. Skinner tagged him for another single in the fifth and Burgess clipped another one base blow in the sixth but Jay set them down in order again in the American Grid Loop to Have Six Franchises

Chicago — Formation of a new professional football league with six teams, was announced Friday.

Representatives of Dallas, Denver, Houston, Los Angeles, Minneapolis-St. Paul and New York formally organized the American Football league. They said play will begin in 1960.

Lamar Hunt, of Dallas, founder of the 6-team circuit, had announced two weeks ago that the new loop would soon be a reality.

Representatives discussed such matters as league constitution, by-laws and working agreements, radio and television broadcasts and a player draft program. They want to have draft plans ready this fall to provide players for the league.

Foxes Need 1,303 Average To Exceed 1958 Gate Total

Unless the turnstiles whirl merrily in the Fox Cities' final trio of Three-I league home stands, the club will fall below its 1958 attendance total.

The Foxes, who have averaged 930 fans for each of their first 42 home dates, must attract an average of 1,303 to every one of their final 15 dates if they are to exceed 1958 production.

In 1958, the Foxes averaged 945 and totaled 58,602. Because of more postponements this year, the club will have a maximum of only 57 home dates out of a possible 63.

The current average, counting games through last Monday, is still fourth best in the league. The total to date is 39,058.

Des Moines, in the last two weeks, has again swelled its average. It now stands at a league runaway clip of 1,470.

Lincoln, on the strength of one special-night crowd of 5,300, jumped from last to sixth with an average of 823.

Miteff Snaps Johnson Streak

Alex Makes Usual Bid for Title Fight

BY JACK HAND

New York — Every time two heavyweights get together these troubled days, the winner thinks he is ready for Ingemar Johansson.

Argentina's Alex Miteff is no exception. "Johansson? Sure I want to fight him," said Alex Friday night after snapping Alonzo Johnson's 13-fight winning streak. "I am a street fighter. I fight anybody, anytime."

It probably will be a long cold day in August before Miteff ever gets a chance at the world champion, but he should get plenty of work.

Machen or Pastrano Teddy Brenner, the Madison Square garden matchmaker, wants to pit him against Ed- and Willie Pastrano no when they reopen the arena in October. Meanwhile, Miteff will be recovering from a cut left eye that required two or three stitches.

Miteff won it on the cards of all three officials. Despite his swollen eye, Miteff made Johnson fight his kind of fight. When Johnson tried to trade with Miteff he got the worst of it. When he boxed at long range and struck out with his slashing punches, Johnson was in command. Most of the time they fought at close range where Miteff gave Alonzo's body an unmerciful pounding.

Expect Over 30,000 Tonight In Milwaukee

Post-Crescent News Service

Milwaukee — This won't be a typical Bear-Packer battle. It can't be. It's not a league game.

Papa George Halas won't be out to cream the still-unsteady Packers in the tenth annual shrine game in County stadium tonight before over 30,000 fans. That would be rotten psychology for the real Packer-Bear game in Green Bay Sept. 27—the league opener, that is.

Lot of New Faces Tonight's fracas, which will start at 8:05, will be a peaceful affair compared to just about all of the 70-plus league games the two clubs have played in pro football's oldest and bitterest rivalry. Other than a quickly booked battle in the early 1930s, this is the first non-league game between the two clubs.

Don't get us wrong. This

For 12 minutes, Brown lay silently on the ground while 70,000 fans stared downward at officials, trainers and coaches frantically working over him.

Chisox Hike League Lead

Lollar's 2 Homers Spark 5-1 Triumph Over Kansas City; Detroit Shellacks Cleveland, 11-1

By the Associated Press
Don't tell Sherman Lollar that Chicago's American league leaders are a bunch of cream puff hitters. The White Sox catcher may hit you with that hot bat he's been swinging lately.

Sherm is a quiet, easy-going guy who rarely has much to say but oh, how his bat has been talking lately.

The reticent Arkansan walked two home runs Friday night, each with a man on base, to lead the White Sox to a 5-1 triumph over Kansas City. It was Lollar's fourth home run in three days during which he's driven in nine runs.

The triumph together with Detroit's 11-1 shellacking of Cleveland, increased the White Sox lead over the Indians to 3½ games, five in the lost column.

9-Run Inning
Lollar leads the Sox with 17 home runs and 65 runs batted in for the season. He was the team leader last year, too, with 20 home runs and 84 runs batted in.

Boston's Red Sox erupted for nine runs in the eighth inning, overcoming a 4-run deficit to defeat the New York Yankees, 11-6. Washington won its third straight, topping Baltimore, 7-3.

Bob Shaw pitched a 5-hitter for the White Sox and list his shutout in the eighth on singles by Kent Hadley and pinch hitter Preston Ward. It was the young right-hander's twelfth victory of the season, his sixth in succession. He has lost but three.

Eddie Yost, veteran Tiger third baseman, banged five straight singles — his first 5-for-5 game in 15 big league seasons — to help Frank Lary register his fifteenth triumph of the campaign. The veteran right-hander missed getting his fourth shutout when Tito Francona homered for Cleveland in the ninth. Detroit collected 14 hits and drove loser Cal McLish out of the box with a 4-run outburst in the third to take a 7-0 lead.

Duren Victimized
The Red Sox pounded three Yankee pitchers for nine hits in the big eighth, including a grand slam homer by pinch hitter Vic Wertz. Ryne Duren was the victim of Wertz' base-clearing wallop immediately after relieving starter "Whitey" Ford with the bases full, nobody out and the Yankees leading, 6-2. After Gary Geiger's home run had given the Red Sox the lead, Boston scored four more before Bob Foye Melberg and Al Harke of Little Chute-Kimberly pace the pitchers with 4-0 records. Joe Van Linn of Kaukauna has 6-1, Mike Vandenhuevel, Freedom, 5-1, and Ron Newhouse, Freedom, 4-2.

Koneczke Is Leading FRVL With .522 Mark

Oshkosh's Gauger Moves Into 2nd On .477 Average

Menasha — Menasha's Jack Koneczke has taken over the batting lead in the Fox River Valley Baseball league with a .522 average.

Koneczke, who has 24 hits in 42 attempts, missed the Mac's last game and will be held out of the next two because he didn't play in the league's all-star classic.

A second round surge has elevated Larry Gauger of Oshkosh into the second spot with his .477 mark.

Don VanWettering of Freedom, the first round leader, has dropped to third and still has a potent .469 average. His brother, Jim, ranks fourth with .460.

Others over the .400 mark are Gene Peerenboom of Little Chute-Kimberly with .417 and Appleton's Dick Cornell, who is hitting at a .412 clip.

Menasha's Gene Gries and Faye Melberg and Al Harke of Little Chute-Kimberly pace the pitchers with 4-0 records. Joe Van Linn of Kaukauna has 6-1, Mike Vandenhuevel, Freedom, 5-1, and Ron Newhouse, Freedom, 4-2.

YMCA Nine Wins Finale Fraternal League Champs Top High School Boys, 11-4

Champion YMCA wound up its 1959 Fraternal league schedule Thursday with an 11-4 victory over the High School Boys.

Winner "Sonny" Filz tossed a 6-hitter and jolted three hits in his own behalf. Ben Stepanski and Mickey McGuire each stroked two while Dave LaViolette had two for the losers. The 'Y' broke a 6-4 game wide open with five runs in the seventh.

One Hour defeated UCT 6-4, and finished in second place alone. Ronald Young yielded just five hits to UCT.

Loser John Jooss gave up merely three. Young swatted a pair himself.

Third-ranking Pond's tripped COF by forfeit.

ACA achieved a 19-4 victory over IPC. Schauer's four hits paced the victors. Ken Harriman totaled three for Appleton Club.

Riverside Loses in National Loop

Valley Iron (4-9) knocked Riverside (8-6) out of a possible championship tie in the National Industrial Softball league Thursday night with a 22-16 upset.

The winners totaled 21 hits, including five by pitcher Gartzke and four by Richard Schinke, including a home run. Gartzke allowed just eight hits.

Sunday's Games:
Menasha at Reedsville.
Little Chute-Kimberly at Freedom.
Oshkosh at Harrison.

Menasha — First round champion "Little Chute-Kimberly" is at Freedom Sunday afternoon in the feature game on this weekend's Fox River Valley Baseball league program.

The Menasha Macs, who lead the LC-K entry by a half game, seek their fifth straight win at Reedsville. Oshkosh is at Harrison in Sunday's other test. Kaukauna is idle. Manitowoc and Appleton played Thursday night.

The Menasha - Little Chute-Kimberly game was called off last weekend because of the latter's participation in the state tourney at Milwaukee. It tentatively has been rescheduled for the week of Aug. 22.

Freedom, the third place club, needs a win to keep it in serious title contention. Manager Jim Vandewettering is expected to send Mike Vandenhuevel against LC-K's Al Harke or Bob Schmidt. Little Chute-Kimberly won the first round game.

The Macs are expected to use Lefty Gene Gries against Reedsville, which has used a variety of pitchers this summer. The Menashas won the first game.

Oshkosh, which still is mathematically in contention, is favored to deal Harrison its fifth straight setback.

Riverside '9' Wins Crown

Grabs Undisputed Classic Title by Beating Dugout

Riverside paper (11-2) clinched the undisputed Classic Softball league championship with 2-0 victory over co-runnerup Dugout (8-5) Thursday night.

Norm McIntyre tossed a 3-hitter, following a 5-hitter Wednesday. He struck out seven and walked two. Riverside's Tom Grishaber poked a pair of 2-run triples. John DeYoung and Norb Horn each had a pair of hits.

Souchak Cards Blistering 63 At Detroit

Detroit — Mike Souchak may be the greatest thing for a slender waistline since reducing pills.

The big fellow has become one of golf's more prosperous professionals since he went on a diet last winter. The 32-year-old Duke football player has a pretty good exchange system. He's trading pounds for dollars.

Souchak carried a 3-stroke lead into the third round of the $25,000 Motor City Open tournament today. He blistered Meadowbrook Country club's course Friday with an 8-under-par 63 that tied the record set by Byron Nelson in 1946 and matched three years later by Bob Hamilton.

Souchak's 36-hole total of 132 was 10 strokes under par and three strokes better than that of Arnold Palmer, who fired a second round 66.

Six players were deadlocked at 138. They are Max Evans, Don Fairfield, Ted Kroll, George Bayer, Art Wall, Jr., and Bill Casper, Jr.

Jameson, Rawls Lead Women's Western by 3

Seattle — Veteran Betty Jameson and Betsy Rawls carried a 3-stroke lead into today's third round of the $7,500 Women's Western Open tournament.

The two were tied at 146 after 36 holes of play. Miss Jameson started the day one stroke behind her Spartanburg, S. C., rival and pulled even by carding a 75.

Two under par with a 70 in the first round, Miss Rawls Friday had to scuffle for 75.

Most of the field found the second round rougher going and only two golfers shot 73—Joyce Ziske of Waterford, Wis., and Wanda Sanchez.

Freedom High Gridders Get Gear Aug. 23

Freedom High school football players will be issued equipment in the afternoon of Sunday, Aug. 23, according to Coach Bill Van Laanen. Practice begins Aug. 24 at 6 p.m.

Players must also pick up examination cards at the school office, according to Van Laanen.

12th Annual Waupaca Open Slated Sunday

100 Entrants Expected for 18-Hole Event

Waupaca — Many leading state golfers are expected to compete Sunday for professional and amateur championships during the twelfth annual Waupaca Country club's open tournament.

There will be 18 holes of medal play beginning at 9 a.m. Professionals will be competing for a top $100 cash prize and other awards. Last year's winners were Bill Milward, Green Bay, and Tom Puls, Tripoli, who shot 72s.

Amateurs will be shooting for three top trophies and over $200 worth of merchandise awards. Kent Pietersen of Black River won the amateur title last year with a 73.

About 100 golfers are expected, according to Dick Johnson, club president. Entries already in are from nearly every Fox Valley club. Madison, Milwaukee and other clubs. Golfers planning to attend may also register upon arrival. Gene Giles, club professional, will schedule golfers. John Cormican, is the general chairman.

The tourney is one of the few open meets sponsored in the state by a private club.

Both lunch and dinner will be served at the club for golfers and spectators.

Laver Is Upset By Krishnan

Australians Held Even in 1st Day's Davis Cup Play

Brookline, Mass. — Their confidence shaken, the Australians sent Wimbledon champions Neale Fraser and Roy Emerson against a pair of upset-minded Indians today in an effort to retain the initiative in the Davis cup inter-zone finals.

"We are naturally concerned," said the Australian captain, Harry Hopman. "We still believe we can win but it would be more comfortable if we were 2-0 instead of 1-1."

Subjected to Pressure
Fraser and Emerson take the center court at the Longwood Cricket club against Ramnath Krishnan and Premjit Lall, who put tremendous pressure on the favored Aussies in Friday's opening singles.

Krishnan, who made every stroke count, upset Rod Laver, the Wimbledon runnerup, 6-1, 6-4, 8-10, 6-4.

Lall, an 18-year-old Calcutta student playing in his first big international match, gave a good account of himself before bowing to Neale Fraser, senior member of the Australian team, 10-8, 6-4, 6-1.

The blonde, Mrs. Diane Struble, (mother of three) plans to keep swimming, for about 12 hours and 30 miles, until she has gone completely around Manhattan island.

Cub Homers Down Giants Again, 7-5

Moryn, Long, Banks Connect; Cards Tip Dodgers in 11th

By The Associated Press
 If the Chicago Cubs had only to play the National League's top three clubs, they'd probably win the pennant.
 No fooling. The fourth place Cubs, playing only .478 against the second division teams, hold the season's edge on the first place San Francisco Giants and third-place Milwaukee Braves while holding the second-place Los Angeles Dodgers even.
 Chicago's record against the Giants is 8-7; against the Dodgers it's 8-8; against the Braves it's 8-7.
 Lose No Ground
 The Cubs made it two in a row over the Giants Friday, winning, 7-5, on the strength of 2-run homers by Walt Moryn, Dale Long and Ernie Banks. That gave the Cubs 15 homers in their last four games, all victories.

 Despite the defeat, the Giants lost no ground to their closest pursuers as the Dodgers were beaten, 2-1, in 11 innings by St. Louis and Pittsburgh defeated the Braves, also by a 2-1 score. Cincinnati swept a doubleheader from Philadelphia, 15-13 and 5-4.
 Trailing 3-1 in the sixth, the Cubs tied the score on Moryn's sixteenth home run with a man on base. Rookie Willie McCovey put the Giants in front, 4-3, in the seventh with his third hit but the Cubs went ahead in their half on pinch hitter Dale Long's 2-run homer. Banks followed with another 2-run homer, his thirty-fifth of the year, to clinch the victory.
 Grammas Wins it
 Pinch hitter Alex Grammas' bases-loaded single in the eleventh won the game, 7-5, in the ninth on Joe Cunningham ham's home run. Don Drysdale gave up the homer, Danny McDevitt gave up the winning hit but Clem Labine, who put the winning run on base, won his twelfth. Duke Snider accounted for the Dodger run with his eighteenth homer.
 The Reds pounded out 30 hits in their doubleheader sweep over the Phillies. They got 23 in the opener as they overcame an early 8-0 Philadelphia lead. A five-run rally in the ninth won it. Frank Robinson and Vada Pinson had five hits each and Willie Jones had four in the opener. One of Robinson's hits was a three-run homer, his 27th.
 The Reds snapped a 4-4 tie in the eighth inning of the nightcap when Johnny Temple doubled off Jim Owens and scored on a single by Gus Bell.

 move and took Bob Placek's pass on the three. Placek hurled to Dowler on the opposite side on the next down, but Carl Taseff intercepted.
 Ends Drive
 That interception ended a drive that started on the Stars' 20 and was continued by three Colt holding penalties and the fumble recovery. The officials were extremely kind, too, to the Stars, calling some 100 yards in penalties on Baltimore for various infractions.
 One other Packer draftee saw considerable action—Andy Cvereko, the offensive lineman from Northwestern. Andy played guard and served part of the time as a messenger with other players, running plays in and out.
 Two other Packers saw limited action—halfback Bobby Jackson and tackle Gary Raid.
 A tackle in college, Cvereko said after the game that he liked guard very much. He played across from big Art Demovian and noted that he was "very smart and hard to get. I had more trouble with him than big Lipscomb."

Cvereko did some good blocking on what few screen passes the Stars were able to complete. He flattened a Colt on Nick Pietrosante's 51-yard run on the first play of the second half. That, incidentally, was the closest the Stars had penetrated until Dowler's catch.
 Dowler felt that the difference was in the Stars not being able to complete their passes. "Otherwise, we could not do much," he said.
 Coach Otto Graham, after chatting with Nixon in the dressing room, said "our inability to hit on our wide passes ruined us. Without that weapon we couldn't use anything else. Our quarterbacks just couldn't get the ball off."

Two In Hospital
 Baltimore really wrecked the Stars. The champs put two of the collegians in the hospital with concussions—center Dick Schafrath and halfback Don Brown. The game was delayed when Brown was hurt; he swallowed his tongue. Center James left with a sprained ankle in the fourth quarter and the Stars were out of centers.
 The Stars, oddly enough, won the battle of first downs, getting 19 to the Colts' 18. The Stars were limited to 21 yards rushing against Marchetti, Lipscomb and Company. The passing was fairly even, with the Colts gaining 211 yards in about half a game and the Stars 186 in the entire show. The Stars completed 15 out of a game record 41; the Colts 14 out of 28. The Colts intercepted five passes; the Stars none.

 Halas' big job this year, he has said, is to get more points out of his offense. He feels his defense is good but lack of more offensive power a year ago left the club in a second place tie with an 8-4 record. So, the Bears may stress offense tonight. Halas will start Ed Brown at quarterback and his lineup will be familiar with the exception of Willard Dewveall, the right end, who is a sophomore.
 Lombardi will start Bart Starr at QB and there will be one stranger in the opening offensive lineup—Fred Thurston, the left guard who was obtained from the Colts in exchange for linebacker Marv Newsome.

Lenny Moore Reels off a long gain for the Baltimore Colts in the third quarter Friday night against the College All-Stars in Chicago. He eludes the grasp of John Guzik (65). The Colts won, 29-0.

Alan "The Horse" Ameche, former Wisconsin great, is off on a 43-yard run against the College All-Stars Friday on Soldier field, Chicago. Ameche helped the Baltimore Colts score an easy 29-0 victory.

Spahn, Hoak Don't Believe Giants Will Win Pennant

Pittsburgh —(AP)—San Francisco leads the National league but pitcher Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves and Don Hoak, Pirate third baseman, don't believe the Giants will win the pennant.
 "There are at least two or three clubs that are stronger than the Giants," said Hoak. "The Braves, Los Angeles and our club."
 Will Be Rough
 Spahn said he preferred to have the Giants out in front at this stage of the race rather than the Dodgers.
 "You give that Los Angeles club a foothold on the top rung," he said, "and it will be rough to catch them."
 "But I don't think the Giants are up there to stay. They're too spasmodic and I don't think they have enough pitching."
 In my book, this thing is up for grabs. Any one of the top three clubs can take it all.
 In reply to a question, Spahn said that the spirit on the Milwaukee club was wonderful, but "we've been lousy for so long maybe we're trying too hard."
 Joe Kniece Fires 36 in Muni Loop
 Joe Kniece matched par with a 36 in the Appleton Municipal Golf association Good-fellowship league on Reid Municipal's back nine holes Thursday.
 Other low scores: John DeYoung and Bob Geenen 37, Jim DeBraal and Tom McKenney 38 and Owen Hurley 39.
 The first place Hole Hi's lead the runnerup Royals by nine points.

James Hoffa's Son Enrolls at MSU

Chicago —(AP)—Coach Duffy Daugherty says he hopes the son of Teamster Union President James R. Hoffa will try out for football at Michigan State this fall.
 James Phillip Hoffa, 18, an outstanding high school grid-der in Detroit last year, enrolled Thursday at the school.
 The stocky, 5-10, 205-pound youth was named to three all city high school teams in 1958. He played guard and linebacker at Cooley High.

Ray Bennett Shoots 46 Valley Iron Score

Ray Bennett's 46 earned low gross honors in the Valley Iron Works Goodfellow-ship Golf league on the back nine holes at the Reid Municipal course earlier this week.
 Bennett also earned low net honors with a 37. Harold Barker's 47 was second low gross tally, while Willard Mackin's 38 was second low net. Mackin leads the loop, with 12.50 points. Harold Bressers is second with 12.33. Harold Barker won the goodfellowship ball.

Child Usually Will Outgrow Lispering Without Assistance

By Joseph G. Molner, M. D.
 "Dear Dr. Molner: My daughter, who will be 3 this fall, is lispering. I'm trying to teach her to pronounce her S's with her teeth clenched together. Is there anything I can do to help her get rid of this problem?"
 Mrs. V. R.
 I'd let her Dr. Molner alone — and just think the lisp is cute. It'll soon be gone. Or, if she keeps on lispering at 5 or 6, maybe she needs a dabble of speech training, but at her tender age, I think you're making too much of a small matter.
 I knew some people whose little boy couldn't pronounce the letter "F" so they let him welcome visitors with the expression, "Hello, folks." It came out, "Hello, soaks!"
 But he outgrew it—as I presume, the visitors did.
 "Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain the esophagus. I know that food and drink pass through this gullet, but what I want to know is can a ruptured esophagus be repaired by surgery? My father-in-law was under treatment for an ulcer by one doctor. Now he is under care of another doctor who told him he has a ruptured esophagus and not ulcer. — G.S."

The esophagus is the gullet or tube which carries food from the throat to the stomach. I don't believe this is a real case of rupture of the esophagus, because if that happens (and it is mighty rare) it is a dangerous emergency, and has to be treated at once.
 But I think I can surmise what it may probably be — a condition called esophageal hernia (or hiatal hernia), meaning a weak spot at the point at which the esophagus passes through the diaphragm.

Leg cramps and foot pains? Both can be stopped. To learn how, write to me in care of this newspaper, requesting my pamphlet, "How To Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," and enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover handling.

Castro Tells Cubans Americans Help Foes

 cent invasions in the Caribbean area were "organized in other countries with the knowledge and consent of officials whose governments had promised to impede such action."
 Doesn't Name Castro
 Herter did not mention Cuba or Castro by name, but Cubans took part in recent abortive invasions of Panama and the Dominican Republic.
 Castro denounced Trujillo as the mastermind behind Caribbean tensions.
 The Cuban leader told how an American, working as an undercover agent for him, lured Trujillo into thinking he was one of the anti-Castro conspirators and helped break the plot against his regime.

 William Morgan of Toledo, Ohio, a major in the Cuban army, sat grinning in the TV audience as Castro explained how he had convinced Trujillo that he was an "adventurer who would do anything for money."
 Castro described how Morgan brought a boatload of arms from the Dominican Republic and "lots of money too." The American was previously reported to have turned on the conspirators when the boat reached Cuban waters.

"If we could have kept our plans against the conspirators secret for another 15 days we could have captured not only all the war criminals but Trujillo and his army as well," Castro said laughing heartily.
 Castro reported there had been four arms shipments to his enemies in Cuba—one from the United States and three from the Dominican Republic—and hinted all four had been intercepted.
 Claims $1 Million Offer
 Later Morgan said that Trujillo offered him a million dollars to sell out the Castro regime.
 He decried he actually received between $200,000 and $300,000 from Trujillo and said he turned the money over to the Castro government.
 Morgan, who fought beside Castro in overthrowing dictator Fulgencio Batista, said he was first approached in Havana by a Trujillo agent. Later he went to Miami and contacted the Dominican consul there.

Transportation on Nile Changes After 5,000 Years

Cairo —(AP)—The huge sailboats called feluccas that have plied the waters of the Nile since the days of Cleopatra may now be moving toward the end of their days.
 The Egyptian government is building a fleet of steel barges, at a cost of $3,300,000, to transport iron ore from Aswan, in upper Egypt to an iron and steel factory on the banks of the Nile near Cairo.
 Up to now, feluccas have been used to carry the ore along the 500-mile Nile route in exactly the way ancient Egyptians transported granite blocks to build the pyramids 5,000 years ago. The ancient Egyptians got their granite from the Aswan region.
 The iron and steel factory, the first established in an Arab country, consumes 700 thousand tons of iron ore a year. Feluccas transport half of this amount. The rest is carried by trans.
 When the new fleet consisting of 60 barges, is completed, the factory's entire iron ore consumption will be transported along the waterway. The barges will be made in Egypt and most commercial Nile transportation companies plan to exchange feluccas for steel barges in coming years.

More Fish, Game Areas Purchased

Conservation Commission Adds 7,649 Acres at Cost of $216,000; Buy Muskies From Private Firm

Wisconsin Rapids—The state conservation commission Friday set a new record for land-buying.

In a snappy session that lasted about 80 minutes, the commission bought 7,649 acres of fish and game and other recreational lands for permanent public use, at a cost of about $216,000.

It was probably the record in purchases for the commission at a single meeting.

Included were such major new conservation areas as river frontage along the scenic Black river in the Black river state forest in Jackson county, huge additions to the George Mead conservation area in Wood and Marathon counties recently donated to the state by the Consolidated Water Power and Paper company, and lands for a southwestern Wisconsin forestry research station just established at LaCrosse.

Reflects Compromise

In another major action, the commission adopted a new policy statement on water use that promises a virtual veto by the agency over future applications from agricultural interests for state permits for the irrigation of crops with water taken from trout streams.

Under a new law the commission is given the right of collaborating with the public service commission in handling water diversion permits, although holders of existing permits will be entitled to continue to use such surface waters.

The new law reflects a compromise voted by the legislature earlier this year after fierce lobbying by the recreational interests on the one hand and farmers, including north central Wisconsin potato farmers, on the other. Commission discussions made it clear that it has no intention of endorsing any proposals for additional diversion of water from any stream that it has designated as a trout stream.

Conservation department officers reported to the commission their resentment about an order from Joe E. Nussbaum, Gov. Nelson's newly chosen commissioner of administration, proposing to evict the department from its state office building quarters.

The commission asked Nussbaum for a hearing, and Charles F. Smith of Wausau, one of its members, said he is "shocked" at the demand that the department vacate offices it has occupied for 20 years.

Forest Program

The commission approved the payment of $43,471 for about 1,000 acres of land in the Black River Forest offered for sale by the Mississippi Valley Public Service company, and also directed the purchase of nearly 1,600 acres in LaCrosse county and vicinity for the use of the new forestry research station that will be operated by the federal government in collaboration with the state.

The station is intended to develop a forestry program adapted to the hilly and un-

Applications for Horicon Blinds Due by Sept. 4

Madison—Applications for goose hunters desiring blinds in the state managed portion of the Horicon Marsh Federal Wildlife refuge will be mailed to all county clerks in Wisconsin next week.

Frank King, assistant supervisor of game management, said Wednesday applications for the Horicon shoot will be handled the same as last year. King said the cut-off date for applications is Sept. 4. Drawings for blinds will be held at a later date when all applications are in.

King said that by the time the applications reach the clerks he hopes the U.S. Bureau of Sports Fisheries and Wildlife will have released the outside dates between which the 1959 waterfowl seasons may be set by the states.

Warden Covers Rule

Bear Hunters Will Need Gun Permits

BY CHUCK WRANOSKY

Oshkosh County Game Warden

The special bear season in eight northern counties and the early deer season on the Apostle islands (except Madeline) have been the subjects of much discussion and many questions are being asked about the possession and transportation of rifles larger than .22 caliber or shotguns with slugs while participating in these hunts.

The administrative code prohibits the carrying or possession of such guns and ammunition at any time from April 1 to Jan. 1 except during the deer season and five days before such season. This is to allow the hunting with such arms and the transportation of them to the hunting area.

Therefore you may hunt the Apostles and transport your weapons to and from the hunting area WITH-OUT a special permit.

The early bear season is a different matter. IT IS NECESSARY to have a gun and ammunition permit to carry such firearms for the bear season.

These permits will be issued in the field by all conservation wardens and department field stations. All you need is a valid 1959-60 deer, small game, or sportsmen's license. The permits will not be available until after Sept. 1.

How To Do It

The best procedure to obtain the permit is to contact your local warden. Have your new hunting license with you and know the dates and the county in which you wish to hunt. Make out the application which he will furnish you.

He will then issue you your gun and ammunition permit.

The bear season will open Sept. 19 in these counties: Douglas, Bayfield, Washburn, Sawyer, Rusk, Ashland, Iron and Price. It will continue through Oct. 15.

Conservation Clubs Around the area have been busy in recent days releasing pheasants. The pheasant rearing and releasing program is one of the major yearly efforts of most gun clubs. Chain O'Lakes Club Frees 350 Pheasants

Birds Released on Public Hunting Areas at Waupaca

Waupaca—Bird hunters in the Waupaca area this fall can be assured of one thing—there are at least 350 pheasants around.

That number, about 75 percent roosters, were raised, and planted by members of the Chain O'Lakes Conservation club.

The club received about 390 birds from the conservation department and nursed and fed the chicks for the last 77 days.

According to Walter Harris, who raised the young birds, they take a great deal of care while they are small but once they gain size they are more like a flock of chickens than wild birds.

Hunting Areas

The quick-footed pheasants were housed this summer in a wire mesh fence. Club members armed with large nets, scooped the birds up and into crates. From there they were dispersed to public area hunting grounds. Places abundant with food and water were chosen to help survival of the young birds.

When on their own in natural surroundings, the birds will disperse and make lively targets for fall gunners.

Right now, they are still testing their flying gear. The young birds are much like youngsters learning to walk. On their first flight, many took crash landings after they forgot to put down their landing gear.

Introduction of European Carp Classic Blunder

Madison—The introduction of European carp into Wisconsin fishing waters nearly 80 years ago was one of the classic blunders of Wisconsin conservation, but it didn't take long for the managers of the 19th century conservation department to recognize it.

The first carp came to the state in 1879, and they were available for public distribution as early as 1884.

Fifteen years later the state fish commission was taking steps to eradicate "deleterious fish."

The effort has continued ever since. For the last quarter of a century the state fisheries division has been spending heavily on private and public netting programs.

Muskie Fishing Rates as Good

Wardens Report Perch Angling Shows Improvement

Madison—Muskie fishing is still good in northern Wisconsin the state conservation department said today in singling out Oneida county as one area where success was excellent.

The department said fieldmen noted improved action for northerns in scattered areas.

Perch fishing picked up in inland waters. White bass fishing was good in southern waters.

Stream trout fishing was reported in the doldrums except in Marquette and Forest counties.

Outagamie county—Warden Chuck Wranosky: Wolf river fish fair with very low water. Catfish being caught by the experienced fishermen. Lake Winnebago fishing fair. Some perch caught on the bars and reefs. Walleye action spotty.

Sheboygan county—Warden Glen Popple: Fishing pressure is very light. Fishing in general is poor. Perch and bluegills biting fair at Sheboygan marsh. Black bass biting fair in most waters, and are biting well at Crooked lake. Some good catches of panfish being made at Crooked lake.

Washington county—Warden J. J. Lake: Fishing pressure light. Large bluegills biting on crickets in deep water. A few bass caught on live frogs.

Waupaca county—Warden Rex Ostman: Smallmouth bass biting on Lower Waupaca and Little Wolf rivers. Panfishing fair on Chain O'Lakes, Bear, Partridge, and Stratton lakes. Some northerns being caught on Chain O'Lakes and Partridge lake at Fremont.

Winnebago county—Warden Frank Deringer: All fishing slow to fair with the exception of perch which are taken readily in all waters.

Brown county—Warden Robert R. Green: Good sized perch still being caught in water about 10 to 12 feet deep. Catfish not as large as previously, however. Some bass also showing up in Dykerville area on crab tails.

Landis county—Warden Carl T. Mierach: Water conditions below normal. Trout fishermen making some fair to good catches on dry flies.

Muskegon county—Warden Walter E. Brown: Fishing fair on Lake Koshong. Some fair catches being made on live minnows. Panfish fair.

Lincoln county—Wardens Don Mantei and Herbert Casper: Walleyes, northerns and bass fair on Lake Nokomis. Wisconsin river flowages and lakes in Harrison area. Evening fishing fair. Muskie action on Wisconsin river from Merrill to Wausau.

Trout fair on Prairie river. Panfish fair on most waters.

Marathon county—Warden Russell Christensen: Trout poor. Bass fair on Rib and Eau Claire rivers. Northerns and walleyes poor. Panfish fair on all waters.

Marquette county—Wardens Ralph Richardson and Ken Kazmar: Bass fishing good on most waters. Trout waters about normal summer level, but fishing only fair. Panfish good on most waters. Northerns slow to fair.

State Cool to Land Transfer

Brown County Seeks New Ownership for Barkhausen Refuge

Wisconsin Rapids—State conservation officials Friday responded with an apparent lack of enthusiasm to overtures from Brown county officers for a transfer of the Barkhausen wildlife refuge along the Green Bay shore to state ownership.

Meeting here for its regular monthly session, the conservation commission said the matter was "under study."

But J. R. Smith, state superintendent of game management, probably hinted about an adverse reaction when he commented that the area would "be very difficult for the state to develop."

Note Objections

The state considered accepting the property from private owners half a dozen years ago, but there were objections at the time to the state proposals for the acquisition of sufficient additional land to make it a worthwhile state game management enterprise.

When the negotiations for state acceptance lagged, the property with its improvements was turned over to the Brown county government. Smith reported here Friday that the county officials have had some difficulties in managing the property.

Germania Marsh to be Dedicated

The dedication of the Germania marsh wildlife area will be held Sunday, Aug. 23, at 2 p.m., according to Marvin Kosanke, committee chairman.

The dedication will mark the completion of the acquisition and development of a major duck area under the conservation department's wetland restoration program.

The dedication will feature talks by Arthur MacArthur, chairman of the conservation commission and congressman Henry Reuss of Milwaukee and introduction of special guests including members of the legislature, local supporters of the project and other outstanding conservationists.

Bob Wright, Montello, will be master of ceremonies. The public is invited to attend the dedication and tour the 3,500-acre marsh with game managers. Nearly 1,000 acres will be flooded for ducks and 2,500 acres managed for upland game. All the land is state owned.

The dedication site can be reached by following Highway 22 north of Montello or Highway 73 north of Princeton, and following the signs.

Duck and goose habitats along with quail, pheasant, grouse, rabbit and deer habitat, will be shown. Game managers will explain how these habitats are managed to produce wildlife.

Mexico's Earliest Known culture, sometimes called Archaic, sometimes Pre-Classic, seems to have been a blend of the simple village arts with a highly sophisticated style known as Olmec, which made its appearance about 1500 B.C. The above, an eight-inch stone figure was discovered in the state of Guerrero in southwestern Mexico.

Booty Brought Home by the first Spanish conquistadors likely included this superb example of Aztec art. Presently in the British Museum in London, the skull is overlaid with obsidian and turquoise mosaic. It probably represented Tezcatlipoca, an important and sinister Aztec deity.

Andre Emmerich Gallery

The Best of AMERICAN HERITAGE

Mexico Scene of First American Culture

BY ANDRE EMMERICH

On the afternoon of Nov. 17, 1839, John Lloyd Stephens, a red-bearded New York lawyer, and Frederick Catherwood, an English artist,

Until 120 years ago, America's own chief heritage of ancient art and architecture was virtually unknown. The story of this magnificent legacy is told here by an author-art gallery proprietor who has specialized in the ancient arts of Mexico and Central America.

hacked their way through a jungle in Honduras and discovered stone altars, mysterious hieroglyphics, and giant idols richly carved. It was clear that they had come upon the ruins of an ancient city. Its only guardians were chattering monkeys moving through the treetops overhead; all else was eerie, humid silence.

In wonder, Stephens wrote: "America, say historians, was peopled by savages; but savages never reared these structures, savages never carved these stones. When we asked the Indians who made them, their dull answer was 'Queen sabe?' (Who knows?) . . ."

Coplan, for that had been the city's name, had been deserted for 1,000 years.

Ancient Culture

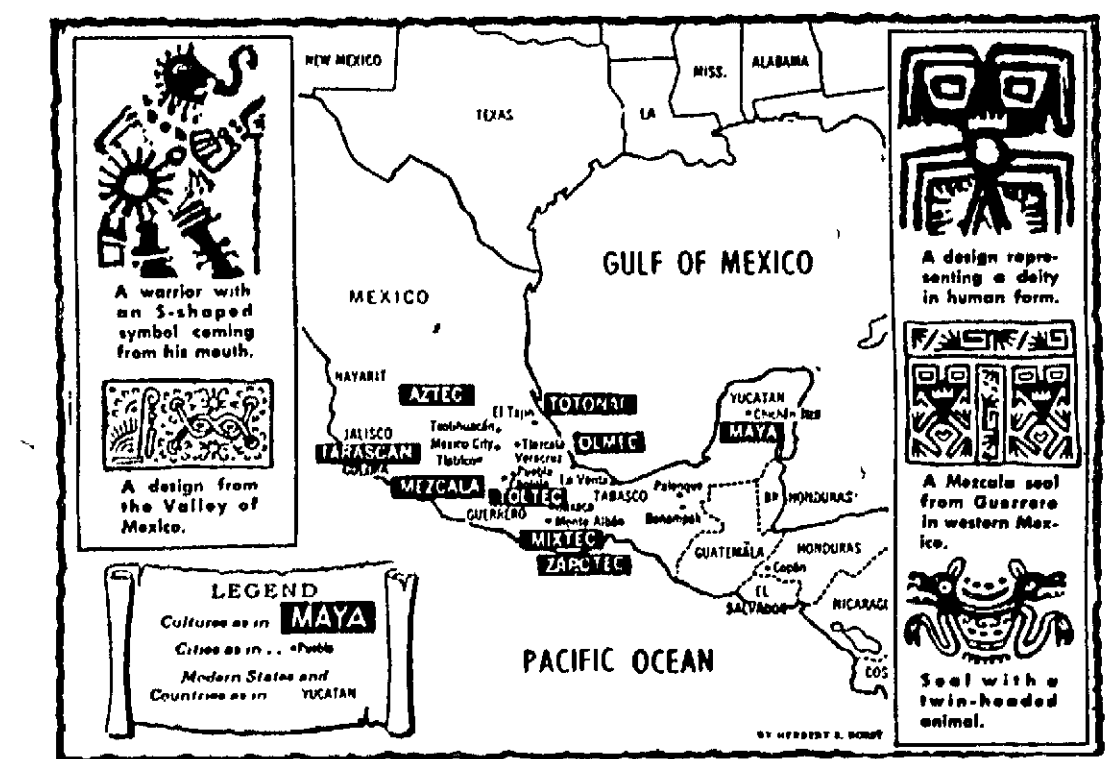

Today, thanks to Stephens and Catherwood and those who came after them, we know a great deal about these sophisticated Central and South American cultures. The patient spades of modern archaeologists have uncovered a remarkable panorama of cultures going back some 4,000 years.

As in all the great culture-producing centers of the world, culture succeeded culture in Mexico and in Peru, spreading out into neighboring areas, including much of the United States.

The latter part of the Nineteenth Century saw the birth of scientific archaeology all over the world. The English archaeologist Alfred Percival Maudslayi, for example, took the first accurate casts and photographs of Mayan monuments while on expeditions through Mexico and Central America in the 1880's.

Perhaps the most dramatic discovery, however, was made by a U. S. diplomat and amateur archaeologist, Edward H. Thompson. He found and dredged the "Well of Sacrifice" in the Mayan temple-city of Chichen Itza. It contained some of the most exciting treasures of ancient America: Jade and gold, as well as figurines, masks, bells and other objects that showed the great artistic heights the pre-Columbian artisans had reached.

There has been much

The Designs on Either side of the above legend are taken from rubbings of decorative seals used on Indian pottery, cloth, and cactus-leaf paper in Mexico's highlands from earliest times to the Conquest. These baked clay emblems were often imprinted with homemade dyes.

speculation on the origin of the Mayas. Many thought the great Indian monuments were built by people from the Mediterranean. Another popular misconception is that the Mayas came from Asia.

Use Carbon 14

A major scientific breakthrough in our knowledge of the ancient history of this culture came only after the last war, with the discovery of carbon-14 dating. Research on atomic energy led indirectly to this new technique. It is based on the fact that all organic material contains a certain amount of radio-active carbon 14, which after the death of the organism diminishes at a constant rate.

Archaeologists, using this method were able to establish that the early village cultures of Mexico date back to somewhere between 2000 and 1500 B. C., rather than to the period just before the birth of Christ, as they had previously thought.

Twice in the history of America there occurs a mysterious breaking away of cultures and a rise of others. The first break occurred about 200 B. C., with the disappearance of the relatively uncomplicated cultures of what we call the Archaic period and the beginning of the great theocratic Classic cultures.

The second occurred at the end of the Classic period, probably during the Eighth and Ninth centuries A. D., when again there is a general collapse before the rise of new cultures.

This third period we call Historic, as its cultures were still in existence when the Spanish Conquistador Hernando Cortes landed in Vera Cruz. Their history is documented in elaborate pictographic codices and legends and histories carefully noted by the early Spanish missionaries.

Before 10,000 B.C.

The earliest traces of man which archaeologists have found in the New World are those of primitive hunters, who roamed North America in the millenniums before 10,000 B. C. But afterward there is a missing link, for the next earliest archaeological sites thus far found in Middle America date from about 2000 to 1500 B. C., and show the presence of fully developed village cultures.

Much of their pottery was subtle and delicate, some of their votive female figurines have a sophistication only rarely approached by later cultures.

Their art proves that they were far from being rude barbarians, yet they appear on the archaeological scene in full bloom as well-developed cultures without apparent ancestry or transitional stages of growth and development.

It is not clear what developmental stages they experienced, or whether they migrated from other areas still archaeologically unexplored.

Perhaps the key to this enigma lies with the people we call the Olmecs, the Rubber People of Tabasco at the southern tip of the Gulf of Mexico.

Their art is distinctive. It portrays rounded, chubby people who to our eye appear incredibly oriental—like a haunting memory of the Far East.

Olmec Aristocracy

The best authority on this extraordinary culture was the late painter-archaeologist Miguel Covarrubias. His theory, somewhat tentatively advanced, is that the culture of the Olmecs was the great mother culture of Middle America, its beginnings dating back to 1500 B. C. or before.

Olmec objects have been found not only in specifically Olmec sites but also in excavations of other cultures, especially those of the typical Archaic or Pre-Classic site at Tlatilco near Mexico City.

About 200 B. C., the simple individualistic pottery and clay figurines of the early Archaic farmers cease to be made almost all over Mexico. There now rose complex theocratic cultures with a similar approach to art and religion and a totally new social system. Covarrubias believed that these great Classic cultures grew out of the cross-breeding between the dominating, aristocratic, and highly developed Olmec culture and the simpler cultures of the villages.

Becomes Sterile

The art of the Classic period reflects the new order—the architecture is grandiose and elegant, full of ritual symbolism, aristocratic and refined.

Gradually, as the Classic period continues, its art becomes more and more elaborate and busy until, after some six or seven centuries, it reaches a sterile decadence.

During the Eighth and Ninth centuries A. D., the Classic cultures come to an end. The temple-cities are destroyed or abandoned and the fertile valleys are invaded by new settlers—wild, nomadic tribes from the north.

Many explanations for this fantastic collapse have been advanced. Probably it was a combination of many factors: repeated crop failures, droughts, internal political stresses, and perhaps civil wars.

Now begins the Historic period, so-called because its events were noted by the Indians in written records, a few of which survived the Spanish destructions.

The Indian chroniclers were convinced that the ancient cities such as Teotihuacan were built not by men but by gods or giants.

Mexican written history actually begins with the arrival in the Valley of Mexico of the great barbarian conqueror, Mixcoatl, around 900 A. D. After his hordes became civilized, they called themselves Toltecs after their capital of Tula. They flourished until their chief city was destroyed in 1168 A. D. in a ferocious civil war.

Awesome Art

To the south of the Toltecs, the Mixtecs flourished—an other great culture which is responsible for some of the most beautiful, elaborate pottery and mosaic work yet excavated.

There was comparatively little cultural development in the region of what is now the United States. None of the great Indian cultures ever penetrated north of the Mexican highlands.

In looking back at the achievements of the Indian cultures, it is astounding to realize how much they accomplished with how little. Unlike the peoples of Europe and Asia, these peoples never had animals they could domesticate and herd—no horses, no cattle, not even goats.

Notwithstanding these great handicaps, the monuments of the ancient Indian rival those of Greece, Egypt and Mesopotamia in size, in splendor, and in the awe they still evoke in us when we see them.

After 400 years of looking at them as little but scientific curiosities, western man has suddenly discovered the sense of awe and wonder in these ancient arts. They were produced by a chain of cultures on this continent whose glories approach the triumphs of ancient Egypt.

These Days

U. S. Communist Leader Escapes Trial by Pleading Heart Trouble

New York — Two facts are separate and distinct and ne'er the twain shall meet. One is that Soviet Russia is a large and powerful country with which we shall either have peace or war; the other is that the American Communist party consists of American citizens who engage in subversive activities in their own country and who when they are caught breaking our laws or doing mischief to our institutions should be treated accordingly.

The fact that Khrushchev is about to visit the United States has nothing whatsoever to do with the American attitude toward our own communist party.

Foster Case

This organization is headed by William Z. Foster, who was indicted on July 20, 1948 together with 11 others. The indictment was under the Smith act and the 11 defendants were tried, found guilty and imprisoned. Foster got off by pleading extreme ill health. His case was separated from the others on the basis of medical testimony to the effect that there was evidence of heart trouble and chronic disease of the blood vessels.

Foster was never brought to trial despite government efforts. However, he had the strength to continue his writing, to attend conferences and to manage the Communist party in the United States.

Since 1958, Foster, still under indictment, has expressed the wish to go to Russia for "medical treatment." It is an established fact that among the most skillful physicians and surgeons in the world in the cardio-vascular field are Americans. There is no evidence that Soviet Russia has medical personnel who are superior to ours in this specialization or that they have done research in it superior to ours.

Absurd Plea

The plea to send Foster to Russia for "medical treatment," becomes absurd in view of the possibilities of such treatment here. It will, however, be recalled that when Maurice Thorez, the French Communist leader, was ill, he was flown to Russia. Are they afraid of what they might say in their sleep? It is perhaps uncharitable

Chinese Leaders In Conference

Tokyo —(AP)—Red China's government, military and party leaders are holding a top level conference, Peiping radio disclosed Friday.

The announcement of the extraordinary meeting of the communist party central committee and the state council said important national problems were being discussed.

In reporting the first results of the meeting, Peiping said a directive was issued urging the nation to make an all-out effort to achieve a good autumn harvest.

The announcement confirmed persistent speculation that the Chinese were in secret conference. Its possible subjects were believed to be agriculture, the peasant communes, the Laos situation and Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's forthcoming visit to the United States.

to talk about a sick man in this way, but those who have had Foster's illnesses know that a man can do a great amount of hard work despite a cardiac condition. Modern treatment for such illnesses places almost no limitation upon the kind of work that Foster does, none of which is physical work of any kind. As a matter of fact, the more the patient keeps busy and stops worrying about himself, the better are his chances of a fair recovery. It can testify from personal experience that a pretty severe case of this sort, to which was added a cancer operation, made me years younger and gayer and stronger. President Eisenhower surely is proof of what can be done. Of course, each case is individual, but Foster has been doing pretty well during the years that he managed to stay out of jail on the plea of illness.

It would seem to me that Foster's cry baby act does not prove any point but that he wants to go to Russia. If they will have him, after he stands trial here for whatever infamies he has committed, why not let him go there. When he dies perhaps they will stick his remains in the Kremlin Wall along with those of John Reed. There was once a person who was called "a man without a country." Maybe that is Foster's ambition. Or is his country really Soviet Russia, despite the undeniable fact that he was born and reared in the United States and has lived here in freedom?

64,056 Told Count In Use Facilities At 8 Playgrounds

Neenah — Attendance at the Neenah playgrounds was up 15 per cent over the 1958 total, Jim Hrubecy, summer playground director, reported today.

Last year's statistics revealed that 55,525 youngsters took advantage of the facilities while the total was boosted by 8,531 to 64,056 this summer.

At the same time, registration increased by 463 or 27 per cent, Hrubecy noted. The 1958 total was 2,191 and the old figure was 1,728.

The playgrounds were open four less days than in 1958 and one playground (Taft) was added. The daily average for the summer was 212 or an increase of 38.

The largest attendance count was reported at Landau park, which had 10,085. Other totals were Taft 8,430, Washington 8,463, Doly 8,281, Hoover 7,600, Green 7,241, Second Ward 7,232 and Cook 6,225.

Larsen Phone Company to Boost Rates

Most Subscribers Will Pay 20 Cents Additional Charges

Larsen — The Larsen Telephone company was authorized Thursday by the Public Service commission to boost rates $1.847 per year.

Manager Julius Jacobson said the increase would mean about 20 cents per month additional charges for the majority of the subscribers. It will be the first increase in rates by the company since 1951, Jacobson said.

New Rates Approximately 90 per cent of the subscribers are rural residents and their rate will be increased from $3.25 to $3.45. Rural business rates will increase from $3.60 to $4.15.

Urban rates, those in the village, also will be increased. A one-party business phone in the village will have a rate of $6.30 compared to the former rate of $5.25. Two-party business will increase to $5.30 from $4.50 and four party will be $4.15 compared to $3.60.

Village residential rates include: one-party, from $4.50 to $5.15; two-party, $4.00 to $4.40; and four-party, $3.25 to $3.40.

The Telephone company has a value of $81,410 and the increase is based on a 6.5 re-increase.

Meadowview Dairy Begins Borden Line

Menasha — Meadowview Dairy, route 1, Menasha, will begin distributing Borden Dairy Products beginning Monday.

The local firm, owned by Mrs. Fred Knorr and managed by her son Harvey, processed its last milk Friday for today's deliveries.

The dairy will continue under its present ownership and management, Knorr emphasized.

The change was made so the dairy could distribute a nationally advertised product line and to cut costs. Knorr explained a small, low-volume plant is unable to compete price-wise with the larger operations.

Borden's now is building a large, automated plant in Milwaukee for processing milk. Milk will be trucked in here every night, so it will be as fresh as that processed in the Meadowview plant, Knorr said.

Plant equipment valued at about $200,000 will be sold. It includes machinery for pasteurizing, homogenizing, cooling and bottling milk.

The firm's 10 driver-salesmen who operate the eight trucks will continue, but four men employed in the processing operations here were laid off.

Influence on Market

Mutual Funds Big Factor in Trading

BY SAM DAWSON

New York — Fast growing mutual funds and the part they play in the stock market are one of the most talked about phenomena in the postwar financial world.

Today you may be wondering what part they are taking in this week's roller coaster market. Traders outside the funds themselves closely watch what stocks the funds buy and sell and how they change their portfolios notably over the years and how much total holdings have grown.

When traders rush to sell stocks, as they did Monday, who is it that buys them? Someone has to or there could not have been some four million shares sold.

In Wall Street the belief is that a sizeable part of the buying was done by mutual funds, always on the search for bargains, and noticeably more active during previous market breaks.

The funds steadily get more money to invest. Some of this money comes from one-stock investments by the public.

A lot of it comes from steady investment under accumulation plans calling for purchasing of mutual fund shares at more or less regular periods.

Constant Increase
The National Association of Investment Companies reports that its 150 member firms now have more than one million accumulation plans in force with an estimated value of $14 billion. Just five years ago there were only 102,000 of these steady purchase plans valued at less than $300 million.

Not all purchases by the funds turn out to be profitable, any more than do those by individuals. That old chant, "If I'd just bought General Motors stock in 1927 and held it, I'd be wealthy today" often overlooks an equal truth — "If I'd bought New York Central stock then and held it, today I'd be out some 81 per cent of what I put into it."

A peek at how one big mutual fund has changed its portfolio over the years—getting out of whole industries,

Lawrence Says

Policy Varies In Handling Demonstrations

Police Don't Treat Strikers Like They Do Segregationists

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — Blazoned across the first pages of many newspapers in the last few days were the pictures of how demonstrators at Little Rock were handled by police, who wielded clubs and order presumably must be preserved, even if it means quelling oral protests by citizens near a school building.

Robinson notes what has happened to holdings of six prominent ones. Originally MIT had 10 shares of U.S. Steel valued at $971.50; 10 of GM at $470; 10 of Eastman Kodak at $1,077.75; 10 of Atchinson, Topeka & Santa Fe at $1,041.50; 20 of Texas company at $780.55 and 5 of National Lead at $729.13.

Eastman Kodak is the only one of the six that has been in MIT's portfolio continuously over the 35 years. Through stock splits the 10 shares by March, 1959, had grown to 77, valued at about $11,002, a capital gain of 704 per cent.

If MIT had kept the original 5 shares of National Lead they would have grown to 549, valued at about $62,701.

All six of the stocks named are in MIT's portfolio today, but in much larger amounts: 560,000 share of U.S. Steel valued at $55 million; 721,000 of GM at $37 million; 222,000 shares of Eastman Kodak at $19 million; 775,000 of Santa Fe at $23 1/2 million; 527,100 of Texaco at $42 1/2 million and 128,112 of National Lead at nearly $16 million.

A Start

The argument for token integration is that this makes a start. But what about the other Negro children? How can they be told convincingly that the law of the land applies only to a few children in a community or state? The so-called liberals often give praise to North Carolina as having met the test. Yet less than 20 out of a total of 320,000 Negro children in that state have been admitted to desegregated public schools. Actually, five times more Negro children have been attending integrated schools in Arkansas during the last few years than in North Carolina.

With the newspapers printing pictures of how law and order is being preserved in Little Rock, one looks in vain for similar pictures and news articles reporting how the police are dealing with local disturbances where labor unions and their pickets are involved.

There is one notable exception. In an editorial in "The Wall Street Journal" one finds a big news story on the subject. It comes in the very week when congress is debating labor-reform legislation. The "Journal" prints a San Francisco edition, so the excerpt which follows is evidently based on accurate information obtained at first hand:

Teamsters Strike
"Well, in San Francisco right now there is a 'Teamsters' strike. This strike was called last week against member companies of the California Trucking association and the San Francisco Draymen's association, which include a good many but by no means all of the companies that do trucking in the Bay area. Some 1,500 members of the Teamsters union itself are not directly involved in this labor dispute and independent truckers, and their drivers, have nothing to do with the dispute at all."

"But no matter. The Teamsters who drive trucks for the non-involved companies aren't driving, either. Nor are the independent trucks moving very far."

"We've got 20 trucks loaded, ready to go, but we can't get them out," reports a dispatcher for S&W fine foods. Drivers of trucks for Zellerbach Paper company and several other firms started out both Monday and Tuesday but soon were back again, cargo undelivered.

Familiar Reason

"The reason is a familiar one. The striking Teamsters on Monday threw up a road block on the Bay bridge and halted truck traffic. All over the city and on the access roads roving bands of Teamster 'pickets' were pulling 'uncooperative' drivers out of the trucks. One independent-minded driver reported that four carloads of roving goon squads tried to run him down."

Police Not Idle
"Of course the police haven't been wholly idle. They had a conference the other day with representatives of management and the union to see what could be worked out. But as one truck line owner explained afterwards, 'the police told us they couldn't take sides.'"

"A simple story, one that has been told many times across the country. The local police don't want to take sides when one man is bashing another man's head in over a labor dispute. They've stood aside on the docks of New York when unions applied the economic pressure of dumping cargoes into the sea and on the rural highways when the pressure was applied to farmers by dumping milk on the ground. Put a 'union picket' tag on violence and the police look the other way."

"Why? Not because the policeman does not know his duty or is incapable of performing it: the police could restore law and order to the highways, the docks of New York or the streets of San Francisco. The local authorities stand aside because for a generation our national policy has made of labor unions a privileged society."

The president of the United States a few days ago appealed for federal laws to curb just such abuses of power. The so-called liberals nevertheless are carrying the banner nowadays for the labor-union bosses who say that "all this reform legislation merely hinders legitimate unionism." True liberals are always interested in human rights irrespective of race or creed or color.

Alleged Embezzler Waives Extradition

Concord, N. H. — A classical scholar who fled to Holland with $19,000 in receipts from the Seabrook state liquor store managed by his father has agreed to return to New Hampshire voluntarily, officials said Friday.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Warren E. Waters said the U. S. state department informed him that Emery N. Eaton, Jr., 26, has waived international extradition proceedings and will face larceny charges.

Waters said he has been advised more than half the money taken Aug. 3 has been recovered by Dutch police who arrested Eaton in an Amsterdam hotel a few days after he and a companion flew to the Netherlands.

Legislative Council Sets First Session

Madison — The legislative council Thursday scheduled its first meeting for Aug. 26—a session expected to be devoted primarily to election of officers and other organizational details.

The interim group, directed to conduct studies which may form the basis for 1961 legislative proposals, will be organized under Democratic control for the first time since it was established in 1947. The council also set a meeting of its visiting committee for Aug. 28.
